THE EAST.

[illegible] Brooks Says of San Francisco's Past and Present.

THE CAMPAIGN IN MASSACHUSETTS.

[illegible] Burned to Death at Annapolis—Funeral of General Steedman—Mormons Bound for Europe, Etc.

Clearing House Returns.

[illegible]—The Post has the following: "A [illegible] from special dispatches to the Post [illegible] of the twenty-five leading clearing houses of the United States gives the total clearings for the week ended October 20, with the percentage of increase and decrease comparatively for [the corresponding] period in 1882. Total, $1,216,513,-[illegible] of the week is more favorable, both [illegible] with last week and with the corresponding [illegible] last year. The aggregate clearings [illegible] $1,216,513,915, against $1,107,071,-[illegible] the previous week, and $1,044,672,349 the corresponding week last year [illegible] with the corresponding week [illegible] of decrease amounting [illegible] against a decrease of 14.4 last [illegible] per cent. of 20.1 the previous week. [illegible] reported showing an improvement [illegible] of cities, and is decidedly re-[illegible] returns from these points. [illegible] to look as if we had overcome the [illegible] of the business depression, to which we [illegible] for so long a time, and the outlook [illegible] more favorable than for [illegible] writing. Southern cities continue to show [illegible] gains.

[illegible] Mormons Bound for Europe.

[illegible] Oct. 22.—A party of thirty-six missionaries on their way from Utah to Europe, reached [here this] morning. They were accompanied by [illegible] John F. Caine, his successor in [illegible] relatives; Mrs. John Q. Cann, [illegible] in Switzerland; Mrs. John [illegible] agent of the Utah Central [illegible] Long, who is going to meet her [illegible], and F. Richards, who comes [illegible] with his wife. The party [illegible] Liverpool, and from there will be distributed [illegible] Great Britain, Scandinavia, [illegible] and Australia.

The Campaign Waxing Warm.

[illegible] Oct. 22.—The Tribune's Boston special [illegible] is getting very warm, [illegible] are making two and three [illegible] special trains being engaged to allow [illegible] the various towns and cities. Both [illegible]. Both claim that victory is [illegible] brings to his story that the [illegible] in Massachusetts [illegible] Friday sent a man before the United [illegible] committee to testify to that effect.

[illegible] Colorado.

[illegible]—Returns to the state auditor [illegible] valuation of Colorado to be $110,-[illegible] of 10 per cent. Last year the [illegible] 000,000, on a basis of [illegible] per cent. [illegible] the year is $10,000,000.

[illegible] Become an American.

[illegible] Oct. 22.—Patrick Egan, ex-treasurer of the land league, to-day filed intentions to [illegible] citizen. He will send for his [illegible].

To Adopt the New Standard.

[illegible], Oct. 22—The signal service will no[illegible] the new time standard for railways.

[illegible] ON SAN FRANCISCO.

[illegible] Upon Revisiting that City After a Long Absence.

[illegible] Oct. 22.—Noah Brooks of the Times, [illegible] of "California Revisited," makes an [illegible] comparison of the past and present features of San Francisco. He says: "I must confess [illegible] San Francisco in its new garb. [illegible] simply wonderful. San Franciscans [illegible], to plume themselves greatly on [illegible] houses, with handsome furniture [illegible], that real business blocks and [illegible] covered sandy, wind-swept slopes. [illegible] replaced by business buildings that are as [illegible] as they are in any city on the [illegible]. So far as my observation goes, the [illegible] seem to have given over all [illegible] earthquake. They defy heaven with their [illegible] towers and gorgeous palaces. Of all [illegible] in San Francisco, that which has transformed the [illegible] back of the first hills into a [illegible] city is the most marvelous. It is like [illegible] glimpse of Aladdin's palace for returning [illegible] to meet one of the cable cars, and [illegible] whirled up steep hills, which [illegible] desolated declivities, and now finds [illegible] comely and tasteful dwellings.

ARCHITECTURAL TASTE.

[illegible] should be the paradise of architects. No [illegible] to think of building a sober house. [illegible] little is what might be called the [illegible] Queen Anne." Of all the crazinesses that [illegible] a city I think San Francisco may carry [illegible], and yet such is the glittering and [illegible] of the air, when it is not surrounded with fog, that I am not sure but this [illegible] of architectural fancy is not just what the [illegible] to relieve it. Otherwise there would be [illegible]. Nobody knows what the geranium, passion flower, fuchsia and Australian gum is [illegible] until he has seen these in San Francisco. [illegible] of local elegance is centered in the [illegible] palaces of railroad magnates crowning Nob [illegible].

[illegible] AND FORBIDDING HOMES.

[illegible] is insolence about these great [illegible] may well revive the ire of the sand-[illegible]. For the most part these [illegible] which are built of wood, are very ornate [illegible] of habitation. They are dark and [illegible] the general effect of the whole group [illegible]. Regarding the gorgeous dwellings [illegible] of government and of the people [illegible] be surprised that communists have [illegible] them to the ground. The Californian [illegible]. He has a grim sense of humor [illegible] laughs at the shortcomings and dis-[illegible] of his government; but it must be said [illegible] at least the Californian pays [illegible] his burdens like a man.

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

[illegible] Expends the Usual Amount of Time Upon the Prayer Book.

[illegible], Oct. 22.—The Episcopal convention [illegible] this morning.

[illegible] of the committee on education, on the resolution of Rev. Mr. Hoskins of Quincy, relating to [illegible] of a school board, with a capital [illegible], which the committee had reported [illegible], was rejected.

[illegible] of the day was then taken up, viz.: consideration of resolutions offered by Rev. Dr. Huntington of Massachusetts, as follows:

[illegible], That there shall be and hereby is proposed to the general convention, for adoption or [illegible] by the next general convention, alterations [illegible] in the book of common prayer, set [illegible] report, and the book annexed as severally and separately set forth; and each of the several [illegible] is hereby proposed as distinct [illegible] alterations or additions in said book [illegible], to be acted upon separately by [illegible] convention.

[illegible] That said alterations and additions be [illegible] made known to every diocese of the [illegible], to the end, that each and every one of them [illegible] for adoption or rejection, as so d[illegible] shall determine.

[illegible] of Minnesota proposed an intermediate [illegible], and offered as a substitute that [illegible] report as have been considered in [illegible] house be adopted as several and independent resolutions, and that they be severally [illegible] to the several dioceses, with the view [illegible] adopted by the next general convention [illegible] the remainder of the report of the [illegible] be recommitted.

[illegible] discussion was interrupted by recess.

[illegible], referring to Dr. Huntington, said [illegible] put in, as an addition to the litany, "Good [illegible] from the general convention."

FIRES.

[illegible] STEAMER ARRIVES IN PORT.

[illegible], Oct. 21.—The steamer Helmdahl, from [illegible] for this port, with 600 persons on board [illegible] off the island, signalling for as[illegible].

[illegible], Oct. 22, 4:15 P. M.—The steamship [illegible] reported on fire, has arrived in the lower [illegible] on board three cabin and 305 steerage [illegible]. [illegible] reports that on the evening o[illegible] smoke was discovered coming up from [illegible] hold. Steam was turned on to keep [illegible]. The cause of the fire was not ascertained. The people on board are not now in peril.

[illegible] BLAZE AT ANNAPOLIS.

[illegible], Oct. 22.—Basil's block, near the Ma[illegible]. It contains the largest bus[illegible] in the city. It is thought two or three persons [illegible] burned to death. The mayor has [illegible] to Baltimore for aid.

[illegible] houses and nine store rooms burned. Two persons were killed—Charles [illegible] his aged aunt, Miss Lizzie Watkins, whom [illegible] was out of the house, went back to [illegible].

[illegible] PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH.

[illegible], Mich., Oct. 22.—During a fire here [illegible] and a boy were buried beneath falling [illegible] burned to death.

THE TURF.

THE NATIONAL HORSE SHOW.

[illegible] York, Oct. 22.—The first annual exhibition [illegible] National Horse Show Association of America [illegible] this morning, in Madison Square garden. [illegible] the entries are complete, and numbered [illegible] including those horses entered for special [illegible] 400 animals. Of these 355 are entered [illegible] regular prizes. The latter class includes a [illegible] of fancy carriage and coach horses, as well [illegible] of fire and police departments. F. [illegible] has two horses entered in the list of thoroughbreds, to which number General Grant has a [illegible] pair of grey Arabian ponies.

ACCIDENTS.

SIX MINERS KILLED.

[illegible], Oct. 22—An explosion occurred in the [illegible] colliery, near Stoke-upon-Trent, yesterday, [illegible] the miners were trying to extinguish the fire. [illegible] were killed and three wounded.

THREE PERSONS REPORTED KILLED.

[illegible] N. Y., Oct. 22.—The train due here [illegible] from Albany, ran off a trestle near Fort [illegible]. Three persons are reported killed.

[illegible] the name of Lydia E. Pinkham was [illegible] outside of her native state. To-day it [illegible] all over the continent, and many [illegible] and religious journals have [illegible] the light that shines on them with [illegible], from which we read the truth that [illegible] in such a temple."

NOTES FROM OLYMPIA.

Review of the Proceedings in the Legislature During the Last Three Weeks.

OLYMPIA, Oct. 20, 1883.

The council on Friday evening adjourned until Tuesday, and yesterday morning a quorum of the steady old work horses was found in the house ready for business if necessary, but owing to the absence of so many of the younger members who were anxious to take a trip down the sound, it was thought advisable to adjourn until Wednesday at 2 P. M.

A GROWL.

It does seem, however, that it was the intention to adjourn for the purpose of visiting the public institutions in a proper manner. A joint resolution should have been introduced in the usual way, and the governor, territorial officers, officers of the legislature and reporters of the press should have been invited to join in the visitation, instead of half the members leaving without permission and telling no one of their intentions. If there were free passes distributed for the purpose of visiting the various localities, there seems no reason why those who received them (if they did so) should utterly ignore the company of those who have always to pay their own way wherever they go. Had the less favored ones only received a hint that such an expedition was in view perhaps they might have joined in it, although it might have cost them more than their meals during the trip; anyhow, the action of both houses is unusual.

REVIEW.

Most of the members being absent, it may now be considered a good time to review the business transacted by the legislative body since they convened, and to this end I shall give the title of the various bills, etc., the action taken thereon, and final disposition and adjournment:

This includes all bills introduced up to the present date. The resolutions and memorials will probably be mentioned to-morrow.

HIGH LICENSE.

This bill, although read only once and laid over, will prove to be one of the most important measures brought before this or any other legislative body, and will probably provoke considerable discussion previous to the vote on its passage. I shall refer to it in a more extended way in my next letter.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER.

The town has been in a state of intense excitement ever since last evening, upon learning that a most diabolical attempt had been made to murder Charles Hewitt, a most inoffensive young man, and one who, with his family, commands the highest respect in this county. Mr. Hewitt, who is a son of Judge C. C. Hewitt, formerly chief justice of this territory, was proceeding home to his father's residence, distant a few miles from town, and when about two miles from this city, he was fired at by a devilish Chinaman, and on throwing up his hands and telling him not to shoot, the assassin deliberately fired again, hitting him in the side, the ball ranging upward. The poor fellow ran for the nearest neighbors, his haste being increased by another shot from the ruffian, which fortunately did not touch him. On reaching a neighbor's, every assistance was rendered, and a message dispatched for the sheriff and medical assistance. The young man's deposition was taken by Deputy Sheriff Snowcraft, but no attempt made to probe for the ball, owing to his weak condition. I learn this evening that he is rather quiet, but by no means out of danger, and every search is being made for his assailant. It is thought probable that the Chinaman is crazy as Mr. Hewitt never saw him before, but could identify him if he saw him again. There is very strong talk of lynching in case the scoundrel is caught.

For Republicans to Say.

Utica Herald.

Since the Ohio election the democratic press has increased its shrill vociferation that the republican party "must go." That is a matter about which the democrats will have very little to say. It is for republicans to say whether their party shall go or stay.

FAYETTEVILLE, ARK.—Rev. T. J. Reilly says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for indigestion and chills with entire satisfaction."

THE STOCK MARKET.

Northern Pacific Shares Advance Sharply and then React.

THE BULLS MAKE IT WARM FOR THE BEARS.

Stocks at the Close Generally Firmer than on Saturday—Exciting Scenes upon the Floor of the Exchange—Notes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The floor of the stock exchange on Saturday was densely packed, and the excitement was intense. Both of the small galleries were completely filled with eager spectators, few of whom could comprehend the wild demonstration below. Brokers were seen crowding in front of the chairman's desk, waving their arms in the air, while a husky, and seemingly unintelligible medley of sounds issued from their mouths. The chairman helped along the excitement by continually pounding with his hard wooden gavel. Perpetual streams of humanity kept moving in and out of the door although the crowd inside was closely packed, and each individual movement was apparently accomplished with difficulty. The price of Northern Pacific preferred advanced for cash delivery, and brokers began to ask each other, in a dazed sort of way, what it meant.

VILLARD'S FRIENDS JUBILANT.

The matter was discussed with interest in up town hotels and restaurants last evening. Mr. Villard's friends were disposed to be jubilant over what they regarded as his coup d'etat. They said that the bears who had been selling Northern Pacific preferred short deserved to be squeezed, and that they would be squeezed still more. As Mr. Villard walked through the Exchange place toward his office in the Mills building, about 3 P. M., he was surrounded and congratulated by several of his acquaintances. He is reported to have said to one of his friends that Northern Pacific would be worth 4 per cent. more before the evening on Monday.

EVERYBODY IN SOBER EARNEST.

There was no "chaffing" on the floor of the exchange. Each man was in sober earnest, and there were many who made conservative observations of the situation, and who shook their heads thoughtfully, and expressed fears that the "boom" would be disastrous. The lowest price paid for Northern Pacific preferred, for cash deliveries, during the day, was 61; the highest price was 78⅜ and the closing price was 75⅜. The same stock sold for regular delivery as low as 57, and as high as 64, and closed at 61¼. Just before the close of the market, common stock of the Northern Pacific had a small sized boom, and its price for regular delivery advanced from 25⅞ to 26⅛, and for cash delivery from 23¾ to 27⅛. The close of the market left the street in a state of feverish anxiety. Some brokers feared that there would be a corner in preferred stocks that would bring serious disaster.

TO BULL OREGON AND TRANSCONTINENTAL.

It was stated that a very strong party has been formed to advance Oregon and Transcontinental next week. The statement was that enough Northern Pacific preferred had been secured to render the issue of the second mortgage bonds a certainty, and on this money would be advanced to enable the company to repay its debt to the Oregon and Transcontinental, which, in turn, would take up its hypothecated securities. A committee would be appointed to investigate the condition of the company's affairs, and would make a report, which would re-establish confidence, and in the revulsion of feeling the stock would have an extraordinary rise.

MONDAY THE PIVOTAL DAY.

Well-informed people consider Monday the pivotal day in the market. If the market is held until Monday afternoon it is considered probable that a strong advance will set in. Trustworthy information is that the Villard party has its securities so thoroughly in hand as to be entirely confident of its ability not only to hold the price, but to compel the [illegible] interests to cover. There is a belief in well-informed circles that the Woerishoffer interest is heavily short of Northern Pacific preferred, and will be compelled to cover at a loss.

BIG BOOM IN OREGON AND TRANSCONTINENTAL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—There is now a regular bear panic, and dealings are attended with great excitement. Since noon the market has boomed with a more rapid advance in prices than at any previous time, the great feature being Oregon and Transcontinental, which on enormous dealings rose from 41⅝ to 46¼. It is currently reported prominent operators are selling Northern Pacific and buying Oregon & Transcontinental. The latter stock is in a position to be cornered, owing to the heavy outstanding short interest. Northern Pacific jumped to 33⅞ and preferred to 72⅝ cash, and 70 regular. Oregon Railway & Navigation to up 110, New York Central to 118 and Union Pacific 89⅛.

STOCKS OPEN LOWER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Stocks opened 2½ per cent. lower for Northern Pacific preferred. The remainder of the list was ¼ and 1½ higher. Leading bears offered round amounts of preferred, and hence the weakness. It soon became known that the shorts were very little, if any, better than Saturday, as each stock of Northern Pacific preferred was worth 1 to 2½ per cent. more than regular. Rumors of a "squeeze" in other stocks led to heavy buying, and prices moved 1½ to 4 per cent. Villard's, Union Pacific and Northwestern are the strongest stocks.

Three o'clock.—Near 3 o'clock a weaker feeling prevailed. The bears made a fresh attack on Oregon and Transcontinental, which was forced down to 42⅝, Northern Pacific, 27⅝; Northern Pacific preferred, 61⅞; Western Union, 75¾, and Union Pacific to 87⅞. The market closed weak. Central Pacific, 63⅞; Burlington, 23⅞; Northern Pacific, 48⅝; Northwestern, 20⅜; New York Central, 100⅝; Pacific Mail, 36; Panama, 98; St. Louis and San Francisco, 31; Wabash, 18⅞; Texas Pacific, 21; Union Pacific, 88⅛; Wells, Fargo & Co., 15; Western Union, 75⅜.

THE EVENING "POST'S" REPORT.

It was apparent at the opening this morning, notwithstanding the settlement of a considerable portion of the short interest in Northern Pacific preferred Saturday in open market, besides a large amount believed to have been settled privately (15,-000 shares by one party), that there was still an efficient outstanding short interest to make considerable excitement. Northern Pacific preferred opened at 61, or ½ per cent. lower for regular sales than it closed Saturday, but after some fluctuations during the forenoon finally advanced by 12:30 to 70 for regular sales, and 72⅝ cash, the advance in the forenoon being 10⅜ per cent. During the same time there was also a large advance of all other Northern Pacific stocks. The common had advanced from 25⅝ to 28¾ by 12:20 o'clock. In the same time Oregon Railway and Navigation advanced 5⅞ to 110; Oregon and Transcontinental 6¼ to 46⅞.

CONSIDERABLE FLUCTUATION PREVAILS.

Between 12:20 and 12:30 there was a sharp decline of 4 per cent. in Northern Pacific preferred to 66, immediately after which it sold at 67⅞ regular, and 69 cash. In ten minutes Northern Pacific common declined 1⅞ to 29⅞, and Oregon and Transcontinental 2⅛ to 41⅝, but other stocks only declined a fraction of ¼ to ⅞, the latter Lackawanna. The excitement at great fluctuations as well as the greatest advance, was in Northern Pacific. Other stocks on the list, however, have all felt the effects of a complete change in the tone of speculation.

At 1:30 P. M. the excitement at the stock exchange subsided. Northern Pacific common sold down to 29, preferred to 64⅞, Oregon and Transcontinental to 44⅞, and Oregon and Navigation to 108.

VILLARD SPEAKS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A private settlement in Northern Pacific was made to-day. A pool of 1000 shares paid 20 per cent. to be let off. Room traders' losses are estimated at 20,000 shares. Villard's friends claim he has 245,000 shares of Northern Pacific preferred in his box. President Villard said this afternoon: "I am not prepared to say whether the necessary three-fourths preferred stock has been secured in favor of the new issue of bonds. I have not yet examined the transfer book."

MONEY, STOCKS AND BONDS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Money, 2½@3½; closed at 2; prime mercantile paper, 6@7; sterling exchange, bankers' bills dull at $4 80½; sterling exchange, demand $4 84.

Threes, 100; 4½s, 114⅞; 4s, 21¾; American Express, 89; Canada Southern, 50; Central Pacific, 63⅞; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, 22⅞; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 12⅜; Denver and Rio Grande, 25; Hannibal and St. Joe, 40 asked; Kansas and Texas, 21⅞; Lake Shore, 97⅞; Louisville and Nashville, 47⅞; Michigan Central, 80⅞; New Jersey Central, 80⅞; Northern Pacific, 27⅞; Northwestern, 19; Ohio and Mississippi, 21⅞; Reading, 50⅞; Rock Island, 19; St. Paul, 93⅞; Texas Pacific, 20⅞; Union Pacific, 87⅞; United States Express, 58; Wabash Pacific, 18; Pacific 98, 29; Erie, 29⅞; New York Central, 14⅞; Pacific Mail, 36; Panama, 98; Fargo, 12; Western Union, 75⅞.

RESUME OF THE DAY'S BUSINESS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Governments strong. The changes in the market to-day leave it generally higher than at the close on Saturday. Northern Pacific common is 1 point higher, Oregon and Transcontinental 2¾, Oregon Railway and Navigation 5 per cent., Northwestern preferred 3. The only stocks that are lower are Northern Pacific preferred ⅝, and Manitoba ¾. The turn in the speculative temper of the market, which began last Thursday, is developing a new force from day to day. At first the preponderance of popular opinion was that it was only a "little spurt" in Jersey Central and Northern Pacific preferred, and the corner was pronounced by bears to be only a "tempest in a teapot;" but in both cases a majority of the speculators were mistaken, and there are some indications that the success of the bears the last few months has betrayed them into overselling other stocks. It is claimed that both the Union Pacific and Michigan Central led to a considerable extent in that position, and there are also some indications that the fight on the Jersey Central has not ended yet.

A GENERAL ADVANCE.

The market opened active and excited. The first sales of Northern Pacific preferred were at 60@65⅞, against 79⅞ at the close of Saturday. Other active stocks were all higher in early trading. Northern Pacific common ran off to 25⅞, against 27⅞ at the opening. [illegible] in this share was not to bear manipulation entirely, it being stated that a prominent operator on the short side had borrowed a round of preferred stock and offered it at easy rates, with the view of creating an impression that the stock was more plentiful and not wanted, owing to the close of the books.

The weakness was of short duration, for before 10:30 a strong buying movement set in, which gathered force as the morning advanced. Villard's were the features, advancing 5⅞ per cent. for Northern Pacific; common to 30⅞; 10⅞ for preferred to 70; 6⅞ for Oregon Transcontinental to 46⅞, and 3⅞ for Oregon Navigation to 110⅞. Cash sales of Northern Pacific: 72⅞@70⅞@72⅞; preferred, 65⅞@66⅞@72⅞@66, a difference of ⅝@2⅞ per cent.

THE BEARS BURN THEMSELVES.

The sharp rise and activity in these shares caused a general rush by the "bears" for other active stocks, and the excitement at one time was intense. About midday there was a regular bear panic, and the shorts, in their anxiety to cover, rushed prices up on themselves. It was rumored at this time that Union Pacific, Oregon and Transcontinental, and others, were heavily oversold, and that these stocks were to be twisted.

After 1 P. M. the excitement subsided, and there was a reaction of ¼ to ⅞ per cent. in the general list, and 2@3 in Villard's. Northern Pacific sold down to 29, preferred to 64⅞, and Oregon and Transcontinental to 44⅞. This reaction was due to realizations.

Toward 2 P. M. another buying movement set in, and Western Union moved up to 76⅞, Oregon and Transcontinental to 46⅞, Louisville and Nashville to 49⅞, Union Pacific to 89, Northern Pacific to 30⅞, Northern Pacific preferred to 68⅞ and Northwest to 120⅞.

A FINAL RAID.

In the last half hour, however, the bears made vigorous attacks on the whole market, and succeeded in depressing prices ⅝ to 2⅞ per cent. in the general list and 4⅞ to 9 per cent. in Villard's. The rally near the close was engineered by operators who have been prominent on the bear side for some time past, and are desirous of checking the improvement before public sentiment changes. On the other hand, that the reported bull party in Northern Pacific intend to follow up their movement in the stock, and for this reason encourage short sales.

Important developments are expected in Oregon Transcontinental. It is stated that a powerful syndicate has been formed on this stock.

COMMENTS BY THE EVENING "POST."

Evening Post: There are as yet no signs that the general public outside of Wall and Broad streets have taken any considerable part in the market. Holders of Northern Pacific in nearby cities sent it in and sold by cash, and bought for regular delivery, and there has been an increase in Philadelphia dealings in Jersey Central, and to some extent in other shares, but on the whole the contest is still almost wholly between two opposing factions here in New York. The outside public never sells short; it does not take kindly to that method. When not on the bull side it is not in the market. As to whether the public will begin to buy, depends on whether the bull clique can show their ability within the next ten days to advance prices and sustain them.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

THE NEW CLUE TO CHARLIE ROSS.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 22.—A telegram from St. Louis stating that a new clue had been found to Charlie Ross, has been corroborated by a statement by a gentleman from Wyoming, who says that Joey Mosher, brother of the Mosher who admitted kidnapping Charlie Ross, was lynched near Cheyenne five weeks ago. Mosher begged that his life should be spared twenty-four hours, and said he would give the world information for which it had been seeking for years past. He admitted to having in his custody a person held for ransom for more than a year, and said he had been driven too far west by the hot pursuit of detectives. Time was not allowed and the secret died with him. The crime for which Mosher was lynched was the killing of J. H. Wentzell and a murderous assault on John Knight.

TERRIBLE SHOOTING TRAGEDY.

AUGUSTA, Oct. 22.—A bloody and fatal fight occurred yesterday near McBean church in Burke county. Saturday there was a difficulty between two young men, Symms and Rogers, at a base-ball ground. Symms cut Rogers in the hand. After church yesterday the difficulty was renewed. Thomas Symms and his sons, Frank and Thomas Symms, were shot by F. R., J. M. and Warren Rogers, and Rufus McNorrell and John T. Fox. Thomas B. Symms was shot five times and killed. Frank and Tom Symms were mortally wounded. John Rogers was shot in the face by friends. The Symms family are reported to have been unarmed. All the parties are respectably connected and are well-to-do farmers.

FOUR MEN KILLED AT A DANCE.

BONITA, Col., Oct. 22.—Last night two Mexicans, names unknown, went to a house near Gardner, where a dance was going on, and while standing outside fired several shots in the house, killing two Mexicans, one of whom was owner of the house, and two white men, one the son of a prominent citizen of this county. Intense excitement prevails. The sheriff, with a posse, is in hot pursuit. Lynching is probable.

NOTABLE DEAD.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL STEEDMAN.

TOLEDO, Oct. 22.—The funeral of the late Major General James B. Steedman, at his place this afternoon, was attended by one of the largest gatherings ever seen in the state. It is estimated that at least 10,000 persons were present. Many were from long distances. Business generally was suspended. A car-load of flowers from friends of deceased in New Orleans arrived to-day, and formed one of the most interesting features. The remains lay in state till 2:30 P. M., at the city hall, and were viewed by thousands. The funeral cortege was of a very imposing character, and was over four miles in length. The interment ceremonies were held at Woodlawn, after which the remains were placed in a vault, pending their interment in a private lot recently donated for that purpose.

PREPARING FOR A WAR AGAINST FOREIGNERS.

HONG KONG, Oct. 22.—There is a report of an approaching war with foreigners circulating in the interior of China. People in Yuen Nan believe the Chinese are preparing for a war of extermination against foreigners.

CHINESE ASSISTING THE BLACK FLAGS.

HONG KONG, Oct. 22.—Advices from Yuen Nan confirm the report that the Chinese are assisting the Black Flags in Annam, who number 3000 men, exclusive of those in the garrison at Bacninh and Son Tay. The viceroy of Canton has objected to foreigners trading in the streets.

NO TROUBLE FEARED.

QUEBEC, Oct. 22.—News of the alarming statements published in New York respecting the reported apprehension of troubles concerning the marquis of Lansdowne, caused some excitement here to-night. It is not believed that any attempt has been made to conceal the time of his landing and the inaugural ceremonies. The party will probably land about 9:30 to-morrow. The new governor general will be sworn in about 10 o'clock, and the party will leave for Ottawa by special train. A French paper says to-night that it is reported that some hot headed Irishmen will make a demonstration hostile to the marquis. It affects, however, not to believe the rumor, and says it hopes its Irish friends will have more sense. It moreover calls upon all French Canadians to rally around the new governor, whose mother, it says, was a French woman. This is the sole reference made to the matter.

MEXICO.

YELLOW FEVER STILL RAGING.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Albert F. Andrade, a Mexican gentleman who has just arrived here, by sail from Guaymas, says that the yellow fever is still prevalent in that city, notwithstanding all reports to the contrary. He says that it continues to be of a virulent type. Mr. Andrade left Guaymas six days ago. Col. Correa, of the Mexican army, was among the latest victims. The fever is said to have been brought to Guaymas from Panama by a family named Conecrado, one of the members of it having died a few days after landing. At Hermosillo, over 700 deaths have been reported, and the fever still raging with most fatal results.

THE NEW MORTGAGE.

Circular Issued to Northern Pacific Preferred Stockholders.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS' EXPLANATION.

Why the Company Has a Floating Debt—The Act Regretted, but Pronounced the Best Way Out of the Dilemma.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Circulars will be sent to each preferred stockholder of the Northern Pacific as soon as the list can be copied from the stock ledger, after the exciting meeting of the directors October 6, looking toward the execution of a second mortgage of $20,000,000. The circular says: "Your board consider it their duty to submit the following explanation in relation to the objects of the meeting: In the fiscal year report of 1882-83 you were duly advised of the existence of a deficiency arising from the excess of the cost of construction and equipment of the main line over the available resources, and amounting June 30, 1883, to $7,980,508. You were further informed that to avoid embarrassment to the company from the pressure of a large floating debt an arrangement had been entered into with the Oregon and Transcontinental Company, under which that corporation made the necessary advances in open account. It was agreed that this company should secure these advances temporarily by the issue of such obligations as could be created under the stipulations of the plan of reorganization. This assistance has proved of incalculable value, and besides assuring the speedy completion of the road it has saved this company, during construction, from the constant embarrassments that a large floating debt would inevitably have entailed.

THE DEFICIENCY INCREASED.

The deficiency for the past fiscal year was increased by further requirements for construction and equipment purposes, between July 1 and October 1, by the sum of $1,173,412, so that on the latter date it amounted to $9,459,920. Ever since it became evident that the main line could not be completed and equipped from the proceeds of the sale of first mortgage bonds, your board have been fully impressed with the necessity of supplying the deficiency at the earliest possible moment, but measures of relief could not be determined upon and proposed to you until the actual cost of the main line over the available resources could be ascertained with accuracy, which was not practicable until the construction work had reached its latter stages. It is, indeed, only now that we are prepared to make a definite statement in this respect. There will be required, in addition to the deficiency of $9,459,920, October 1, the sum of $5,690,000 for the following purposes: For accruing construction estimates and vouchers, $1,650,000; for meeting future estimates of the chief engineer for completion of the main line, including machine shops, station houses, water tanks, coal bunkers, etc., $1,270,000; for the bridge over the Snake river at Ainsworth, $480,000; for present work on the bridge over the Willamette river at Portland, Oregon, $33,000; additional motive power, $746,000; additional rolling stock, $1,256,000; miscellaneous, $106,000; total, $5,-[illegible]90,000.

WHY THE LOAN WAS MADE.

The amount will provide funds to finish the construction and equipment of the road, except $750,000, which will be gradually needed in the course of two years subsequent to March 1st next for completion of the bridge over the Willamette, and can be readily met out of the net income or out of the reserve funds hereinafter mentioned. We have thus a total, exclusive of the cost of the Willamette bridge, of $14,959,920 in excess of the requirements over the proceeds of the general first mortgage bonds.

It is due to you that you be told plainly so that you may understand clearly the causes that combined to produce this deficiency. In the first place the cost of the Yellowstone, Clark's Fork and Pend d'Oreille divisions was greater by $5,500,-000 than the engineers originally estimated. The [illegible] materials encountered, instead of solid rock, in the Bozeman and Mullen tunnels, largely increased the cost of these works over the estimates, besides necessitating the construction of temporary overhead lines, at an expense of $140,000. The cost of the Bismarck, Snake river and Willamette bridges will be more than expected, owing to the extra cost of foundations, approaches, etc.

MORE ROLLING STOCK NEEDED.

Then again the development of traffic was such that fully 40 per cent. more motive power and equipment was required than estimated. Last, but not least, the Minnesota, Dakota and Missouri divisions of the main line were in such condition and the requirements of business so large that, in order to render them in safe and economical operation, the total expenditure the past three years of $3,604,501, for renewal of track and superstructure, and division shops at Brainerd and elsewhere, and other betterments was indispensable. The cost of the erection of an office building at St. Paul is also included in these expenditures.

We do not hesitate to say that it is as good a road as has ever been built for the money west of the Mississippi river. It has been examined by a number of eminent American and foreign experts since the opening of the through traffic, and their united testimony is to the effect that it is thorough in construction. To that fact must the excess of the actual cost over the estimates be largely ascribed. On the other hand the road will hereafter be operated so much more cheaply and efficiently, in consequence of the thorough manner in which it has been built, that the stockholders will find they have a full equivalent in the enhanced expenditure.

THE STOCKHOLDERS' CONSENT REQUESTED.

After due consideration of the situation of the company in all its bearings your board has concluded to request your consent to the creation of a second mortgage as security for the issue of $20,000,000 6 per cent. gold bonds. The new mortgage is on all the property of this company, except the lands east of the Missouri river, which were reserved by the plan by reorganization for the benefit of preferred stock, subject to priority of the present general mortgage, and it will be similar in terms to the general mortgage, and subject only to its liens.

Your board is pleased to say it has received a proposition from a syndicate represented by Drexel, Morgan & Co., Winslow, Lanier & Co. and August Belmont & Co., to take $15,000,000 of these second mortgage bonds, at the price of 87½ cash, less one per cent. of commission in bond, with six months' option to take the $7,000,000 more on the same terms. Considering the proposition a favorable one, we accepted it, subject to the authorization of the mortgage by you and to a special meeting to be held November 20. The sale of $18,000,000 of the second mortgage bonds, at the stated price, will enable the company to meet all its liabilities and provide for its coming construction and equipments and leave a reserve of $1,100,000, in bonds, in the treasury.

THE BOARD REGRETS THE NEW MORTGAGE.

Your board regrets the necessity of the creation of a new lien upon your property, but stockholders remember every dollar of additional capital put in the road adds to its value and earning capacity, and permits of the more economical operation. The earnings of the road, during the five weeks it has been operated as a through line, from September 8, have fully equaled our expectations, being $1,511,-[illegible], excluding construction and company freight, and we feel sure they will continue to do so. All competent judges who know the system of railroads, steamboats and steamship lines tributary to the main line on the Pacific coast agreed with us that through business will add very largely to our gross earnings. Moreover on October 1, under an amicable arrangement with the Union Pacific Railroad Company, the business of Butte City, Montana, was opened to this company, and, as has been announced in the press, we have also made arrangements with other Pacific railroad companies by which we take business to and from California. Our road will derive large benefits from both of these sources.

By the board. H. VILLARD, President.

How It Was Done.

Ohio State Journal.

Mr. Schumacher, who was the candidate of the prohibition party for governor, has been interviewed, and gives to the public a piece of his mind in regard to the republican party, which corroborates what has heretofore been said about the attitude of the prohibitionists toward the party to which they were indebted for the opportunity to vote for the prohibitory amendment. He says: "I understand that the republicans are charging us with their defeat. I hope they will come to believe it; that is what we intended to do." There can be no misunderstanding such an expression, and the republicans are generally coming to understand how it was done.

He says: "We owed them nothing. They submitted the prohibition amendment simply because 157,000 people asked for it." How about the democratic party, which was solid in the legislature against the amendment, and which is the beneficiary of the republican defeat which the prohibitionists "intended to" and did administer? Such expressions from leaders of the prohibition movement will not fail to open the eyes of republicans to their real animus. They have defeated the republican party, and say they intend to do it again. They have elected a democratic ticket, and a democratic legislature, on a platform hostile to sumptuary legislation. Let them go to their creatures next winter with their petitions and see what kind of a reception they will meet with. They cannot consistently ask the republicans to help them under the circumstances.

FOREST GROVE INDIAN SCHOOL.

A Review of Its Work and a Statement of Its Prospects and Objects.

FOREST GROVE, Oct. 18, 1883.

This school for the education and industrial training of Indian children has been in operation at Forest Grove for three years. Its object is to entirely remove the children from Indian society and place them among white people, where they will constantly see and come in contact with the manners and customs of civilized life. They are expected also to receive a common English education and learn to work. The school has at the present time an attendance of 150 pupils.

It was at first difficult to get the pupils to come to the school, but at the present time many more wish to come than can be accommodated. This change has mostly been brought about through the influence of the pupils attending the school. They are happy and contented, and in various ways endeavor to persuade others to come to the school. The parents of the children also have not been slow to see that their children improve rapidly here, especially in speaking English, and the more progressive class of Indians are glad of an opportunity of getting their children away from the influences of Indian society. The children first brought here were received for three years only, and consequently were allowed to return to their homes at the expiration of that time. At the present time children are taken for a term of five years, and a majority of those that were sent home have returned to the school to remain two years longer, so that it is not possible to say yet from actual observation to any extent what will be the effect of this kind of training upon the children after they leave here.

One young man who learned the carpenter trade here has been working at his trade the past summer in New Tacoma, W. T., taking contracts for buildings and furnishing all of the material himself. He has been successful, and has had plenty to do, and has had as many as three white men in his employ at one time.

We frequently hear from those that have left the school, and the invariable opinion is that they are exerting an excellent influence wherever they are, especially in encouraging the schools upon the reservations, in taking part in church exercises, and in selecting homes and making improvements on the reservations, etc. Those who have not been able to find suitable employment upon the reservations, and have had to find work elsewhere, have selected land on the reservations and had some improvements made upon it with the expectation that the government will soon allot their land to them.

Some of the pupils that have been longest in the school are now employed in the school. At the present time there are four positions very efficiently filled by Indians.

All the clothing worn in the school, including boots and shoes, is made by the pupils. The children are not hard to govern, and are willing to work, and show as much improvement from education as white children, and if it were not that an Indian is obliged to forfeit his land and home, and leave his friends and relatives, in order to become an United States citizen, no doubt but some of them would become respected, useful and industrial citizens. But since so many inducements are held out to them to continue the old wandering, vagrant life, it would indeed be strange if some of them did not go back to it.

Let any neighborhood or community of white people be confined to a certain locality, yet having no individual right to any part of it, and be constantly told that they could not expect to remain there long, or else know, from sad experience, that they would not likely stay long in one place, then with few civil legal protection in the possession of their lives or property and only give opportunity for the education of one child in five, and how much improvement would they make? Yet these are only a few of the barriers to civilization among Indians, and such is the state of society to which every child in this school will return when they leave here.

There are 50,000 Indians now in Oregon and Washington territory, occupying in most cases the choicest tracts of land, yet in such a way that there is no inducement for them to utilize it and in such a way that white people can receive no benefit from it. There is a constant clamor for this land to be opened up for settlement by white people, but the United States government has constantly opposed such a scheme, on the ground that the Indians were not sufficiently advanced in civilization to become citizens and that they were better off as they are, and that it was better for the white people for them to remain as they are until they become better civilized. There is a class of Indians (mostly small) on every reservation sufficiently intelligent to adapt themselves to the conditions of civilized life, and no class of white people are more anxious for Indians to be allowed to take land in severalty and become subject to state laws than is this class of Indians. But the largest class of Indians would certainly be an undesirable addition to any white community, and just when they are to become intelligent enough to become self-supporting and law abiding citizens at the present rate of educating them is somewhat uncertain. Congress has for two years appropriated money for the education of 150 children in this school, and it is only very recently that there were more than one-half that many in the school. At the same time another appropriation will admit of the education of 150 more in Oregon and Washington territory, yet there does not seem to be any one enough interested to expend the money after it is appropriated. It is not on account of lack of children, for there are 12,000 Indians who are nearer to this school than to any other school of this kind. It is not because the children are provided for on the reservations. There is one reservation in Washington territory where there are over 1000 children of a school age, and the school accommodations are only sufficient for 175. The same is true of other agencies. It is not because the children are not willing to go to school or that their parents will not let them go. We could double our numbers in this school in two months if our appropriation and accommodations would admit of it. And it is not that there are any conditions on the part of the government that are difficult to comply with. In the state of Wisconsin there are seventy-five Indian children being educated at the expense of the United States; in Indiana seventy-five, and in Iowa fifty, all under an act of congress that is just as operative in Oregon as in either of these states. It is not customary for the general government to assume the education and support of the ignorant and dependent classes in the individual states, but in the case of Indians it has often done so. And there is every reason to believe that if the funds already appropriated were utilized that at the next session of congress they would be largely increased. War against Indians as a means of solving the Indian question has certainly had a fair trial, and no one will deny that it has been expensive. And if exterminating them has been the object sought, it has been a failure, since there are more Indians now in the country than ever before. If the object has been to civilize them, it can hardly be said to be a great success. Unless sending one school teacher to every 5 or 6 hundred children is called educating them education has never been tried. And even under these circumstances they are so effectually confined to their reservations that not one in five hundred have any definite idea of what civilization means.

Education would at least be a safe thing to try. It would be humane and not very expensive. In fact, the Indians in this country have enough surplus land to create a fund the interest of which would educate their children for all time to come. And education as a means of civilizing human beings is no experiment, but wherever it has been tried, and especially in connection with religion, it has been found to be one of the most effectual means. It justifies a fair trial under favorable circumstances. Not such as are here at Forest Grove, where we are expected to teach the boys farming without land, team, wagon or plow and the trades without shops or any place to build them, unless we do as was done in the case of the school buildings, put them on land to which the government has neither deed or lease, knowing that all the money so spent will be lost to the government. But a good farm of sufficient size should be provided, with good buildings, all of which we hope to have in the course of a year as a sufficient tract of land has been offered by parties interested in the cause of Indian education, and two congressmen from Oregon have offered to look after an appropriation for building purposes. The only thing that remains is to secure funds to defray the expense of the removal of the school. The appropriation also for the support of the school should be increased, so that 300 instead of 150 children could be admitted to the school.

The following are the results of the industrial department of the school for the last six months: Thirty-six tons hay, 3 tons oats, 100 tons straw, 600 bushels potatoes, 52 bushels peas, 102 bushels radishes, 125 bushels onions, 60 bushels beans, 500 heads cabbage, and 1000 squashes was the results of the farm labor, the land being rented for a share of the crop.

Receipts from blacksmith shop, $400, besides work done for the school. Receipts from shoe shop, $710 10. The usual amount of clothing made for the school, in addition to fitting out 151 new pupils that have been brought to the school during this time. The school buildings have been completed and repainted, and the school grounds put in first class order. Two wells, one eight and the other eleven feet in diameter, have been dug. Three hay barns have been built; a very large woodshed and a shop building. The health of the school has been excellent, three deaths having occurred during the year. The school has been thoroughly graded and rendered more efficient in every respect. Every pupil is required to work five hours each day, including the care of the buildings and grounds, the formation of industrious habits being the great object of the school.

No feature of the work here is more encouraging than the increased interest manifested in the school and the cause of Indian education generally by the public, and we have to acknowledge many obligations for many favors, especially from business men of Forest Grove and Portland, with whom we have had dealings. Owing to our limited allowance ($200 per capita per year) to cover all the expenses of the school from the time the children start from their homes until they are returned, including subsistence, clothing, employes' salaries, etc., we are obliged to buy on a very close margin. At the present time the school is out of debt and is running within its allowance.

The various employes are efficient and interested in the work, but the real success of the school is very largely due to the uniform willingness of the children to do all that is required of them and their earnest desire and determination (especially the old pupils) to make it a success. We feel that it is due from us to acknowledge the hand of Providence, that has been so manifestly in this work, and without which our best efforts would be fruitless.

CALIFORNIA.

The Central Pacific Issues a Circular on Special Contracts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Recent specials to THE OREGONIAN on the complexion of the railroad muddle and the attitude assumed by the various roads against the Northern Pacific, and giving the probable action they would take in reference to special freight contracts, are borne out to-day by the issuance of a circular, emanating from the Central Pacific and concurred in by all the roads represented at the recent conference. The circular calls upon the merchants of the Pacific coast to renew the special contracts which expire December 31. It states that though the Northern Pacific refuses to give the merchants of San Francisco the benefit of this system, it did so with the object of monopolizing the northwest trade, and to extend special contract rates to Portland merchants, and Oregon and Washington territory generally. Complaint was made by San Francisco merchants having branches in Portland to this effect, resulting in inquiry and telegraphic communication that confirmed the report. After alluding to the benefit San Francisco merchants will have by a renewal of these contracts in the firms consumed overland as between the Northern Pacific and the Central and connecting lines, the circular guarantees to shippers under special contracts that any cutting in rates will be met by them and no disadvantage to shippers will be allowed. The point was also made that the Northern Pacific at first refused to allow a rebate to Portland merchants sending goods to the interior, but finally acceded to lower rates.

Captain Hardy of the Chilian Bark Oregon Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The British ship Star of France reports having spoken the ship Leicester Castle, which had on board a part of the crew of the wrecked Chilian bark Oregon, which sailed from Port Discovery June 20. Captain Hardy of the Oregon was drowned while putting off from that vessel in a small boat. The captain of the Star of France learned that when the Oregon first grounded on the reef off Oneo islands, where the vessel was wrecked, that the mate, with half of the crew, went in one of the boats to Pitcairn island, where they obtained the use of the whaling boat with which they returned to the Oregon, but only to find that the men left on board had abandoned her. These latter were those who were picked up by the Leicester Castle. A lady passenger and her two children were among the rescued. The Leicester Castle was spoken a few days since near this coast, and will probably reach here this week with the wrecked party.

Meeting of Colored Citizens.

At a mass meeting of the colored people of this city to-night, among the prominent speakers was ex-Lieutenant Governor Johnson, who stated that the decision of the supreme court of the United States regarding the civil rights bill, was really a cause of congratulation to the colored people, as the fourteenth amendment, placed the blacks on an equality with the whites, and any other legislation on the subject impugned the validity and purposes of it. Several colored speakers expressed feelings of grief and regret at the action of the judicial department of the United States, and evinced considerable spirit in stating that the humbug should have so long continued without detection. Resolutions were passed condemning the supreme court for its decision on the civil rights bill.

The Shorthand Reporters' Strike.

The shorthand reporters continue to paralyze the business of the courts. In Judge Ferral's court this morning the reporter refused to do any more work until his demands for salary were recognized. The judge thereupon adjourned the court, awaiting the action of the supervisors this evening. Judge Toohy states that the second trial of John B. Gray, set for to-morrow, will have to be indefinitely postponed. Other cases will also have to be put over. The supreme court says the commitment of reporters, on the part of the superior judges, was an excess of authority on their part; so no cases can be tried until the courts are extricated from their dilemma.

Cost of the Conclave.

The final meeting of the finance committee of the Knights Templar conclave will be held Wednesday next, when all the reports will be in. It is known that the celebration cost in round figures $50,000, and it is estimated that individual commanderies spent as much more. The decoration of the city cost $17,500, and the Hawaiian band, $5000.

The Granada Released from Quarantine.

No new cases of fever having appeared on the steamer Granada, the vessel has been released from quarantine, fumigated and docked. The cargo will be discharged without further delay.

Neilson Brings Suit Against Sharon.

Wm. Neilson, who acted as attorney for Miss Hill in the charges of adultery preferred by her against Senator Sharon, and dismissed in court on Saturday last, has commenced suit against Senator Sharon to recover $120,000 for alleged slander.

The Sub-Treasury.

The United States sub treasury in this city now has in its vaults $71,000,000, said to be the largest sum on hand in its history.

Decides Against the Mining Company.

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 22.—In the suits of Allen S. Noyes vs. the Spring Valley Hydraulic Gold Company, commonly known as the Cherokee Mining Company, Judge Keyser in the superior court of Sutter county to-day rendered a decision for plaintiff, making the temporary injunction perpetual. This decision practically amounts to shutting down operations at the mine, at least by hydraulic process. It is believed that the company has no course open to it, except to buy the lands of the plaintiff and other parties interested in the suit, among whom is ex-Speaker Parks. The purchase of these lands would involve an expenditure of from $50,000 to $100,000.

THE GREAT NORTHWEST.

What the "Chronicle" Says of the Northern Pacific and the Country It Drains.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—The Chronicle editorial to-morrow on the northern outlook will say: "The estimate of the future prospects of the vast and rich region whose produce is to be drained by the Northern Pacific railway and its branches is heavily discounted by the mistake made by the government in not taking full ownership and control of that road when the Jay Cooke syndicate failed and threw up the job. Had the government built the road on its own par bonds, at 3 per cent., for say thirty years, the cost of the work fully equipped had been many millions less than the company has made it, and the interest account at least $2,000,000 a year less. This $2,000,000 (probably $3,000,000) is a premium which the supporters of the road will be taxed by the corporation, over and above all rates which the United States, as owner and operator of the road, would have charged. It is an enormous discount on the resources of the country and the earnings of the people; but still the natural resources of Oregon, Washington, Montana and Dakota are so vast in soil, iron, timber, lumber, capabilities for cereals and precious metals that not even this huge discount set upon them can long retard a mighty development.

POSSIBILITIES OF THE NORTHWEST.

When it is reflected that California produces fully one-tenth of all the wheat of the country, and more than one-fifth of the wheat exports—that we do this with an area of not more than 3,500,000 acres planted in wheat—that Washington and Oregon have seven times as many acres better adapted to wheat than ours, and that within the railway belt of the Northern Pacific, we begin to form an understanding of the future agricultural possibilities of our northern neighbors, whose resources in coal, iron and lumber are even greater than in the cereals. Given a shipping terminus on the deep waters of the Puget sound, equal in facilities for large ships with those of San Francisco, and it needs no prophetic mind to foresee the creation of a city there which, within the lives of its young men, will in its exports and imports reach the magnitude of our own."

UTAH.

A PROTEST AGAINST SUMNER HOWARD.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 22.—The Salt Lake bar, to the number of thirty, met in the federal court house this afternoon and passed resolutions against the nomination of Sumner Howard of Michigan as chief justice of Utah.

SUNDRY SMALL MATTERS.

The world consumes 2,000,000 tons of tobacco a year.

The young husband of the ancient Baroness Burdett-Coutts owns seventy fishing smacks.

In 1882 there were ninety-six murders in Kentucky, and up to date there have been 119 in 1883.

Among the relics destroyed at the burning of the Pittsburg exposition building was the sword of General Anthony Wayne.

Four boys at Jackson, Mich., organized a "Jesse James gang" and made the town howl. They have just been sent to the reform school.

A fool from St. Louis arrived at Salt Lake City a few days ago, having pushed a hand car the entire distance. His destination is San Francisco.

The library of General Sam Houston, numbering some 475 volumes, has been presented to the Houston Normal Institute at Huntsville, Texas.

The Wisconsin saloon keepers in state convention assembled resolved that drunkenness is not due to the saloons, but to the lack of education in youth.

A rebel two-cent stamp went through the Richmond postoffice undetected recently, and as its color and style is much like the new one, it is feared the old rebel stamps will come out on duty.

The jailor at Uniontown, Pennsylvania, refused admission to a party of young women who wanted to sing a few songs to James Nutt, awaiting trial for the murder of Dukes. He said they might look through the bars at the prisoner, but he didn't want any singing around there.

In Yazoo county, Mississippi, a party of hunters killed a deer that had a human skull impaled on a prong of his horn, supposed to be that of a negro. The prong had entered the cavity occupied in life by the eye, and had grown up around the bone, showing the skull had not been put on recently.

John Du Bois of Du Bois, Clearfield county, Pa., is said to worth $14,000,000. Six hundred men are employed in his lumber mills, 1000 get the timber from the woods, and 600 are mining coal for him. He offers to erect a court house and public buildings if a new county is made of parts of Clearfield, Elk and Jefferson counties, and called Du Bois.

STOCK "DEALS"

Presumably the dealing in stocks is as legitimate as the buying and selling of chattels of any other description. A stock certificate is supposed to be an instrument which guarantees that the value stamped or written on its face actually exists in the property of the corporation by which it is issued, in exact proportion to the number of shares issued by such corporation. Upon this basis or understanding all investors, other than wanton gamblers make their purchases. The question whether or not this pre-supposed understanding is ordinarily sustained by fact, or is a delusion and a snare, is outside the purpose of these remarks. It is obvious that without the intervention of joint stock corporations numerous works of public utility and benefit would not be attempted, since individual capital would be utterly inadequate to compass them. Of course, when a large number of persons become partners in a stock corporation, it follows that a small minority of its members must direct its affairs. It should appear that if the first premises are correctly formed it can but require integrity and administrative ability to insure success. Such might and probably would, be the case, did not another element intervene with intent to rob and despoil the investors of the fruits of their labor and capital. The instrument used by these robbers is the stock exchange. The methods employed to accomplish their ends are so iniquitous as to demand the earliest possible congressional legislation. A short statement will set forth one of the most common and at the same time most complete of the methods of robbery through the stock exchange.

A and B are stock brokers, C, D, E and F are dealers or investors. These last one or all, go to A to purchase a stock, buying "on a margin," as the phrase goes, and paying down their fifteen, twenty or thirty dollars a share. The shares are held by A, or deposited by him in bank as a basis of credit for himself. The other broker, B, now comes in and asks A to lend him the shares for temporary use. The shares are lent accordingly, and thrown again on the market, and the process is repeated, over and over. Thus, the shares which the original investors had bought in good faith, and upon which they had advanced the "margin" required, are thrown again and again upon the market; the market is broken, and the investors are called on to put up more money or be sold out. The rules of the stock exchange are peremptory, and men who have not the money, or lack the courage to protect their investments are forced to the wall by methods expressly devised by their own agents for their ruin.

This favorite game of sharping brokers could be checked by a general law which would require the broker to furnish to the investor or purchaser a record of the shares bought, with memoranda of denominations and numbers, and then to compel the broker under severe penalties to hand over to the investor when full payment was tendered the identical shares of stock described as above. Under such a regulation it would be impossible to let out the same shares to be used over and over to depreciate the value of the stock, break the market and rob the investor. Such an act to have general effect, ought to be passed by congress. The enormous transactions in Northern Pacific and Transcontinental shares during the last few days, with the extraordinary premiums paid for the loan of the stocks even for a single day reveal plainly the nature of the game that has been played. Ten shares, or one hundred shares of stock, have been sold for every share actually on the market, and the scheme has been pushed for all it was worth expressly to rob those credulous enough to take a hand in it. Less dishonest transactions, such as the bunko game and plain larceny, are visited with the severe penalties of law.

THE MOVEMENT WESTWARD

Already many settlers are coming into Oregon and Washington by way of the Northern Pacific railroad. The movement is not great but it is sufficiently large to be a surprise to the railroad management which did not expect immigration to move this way in considerable numbers till next spring. But notwithstanding the fact that the fall is well advanced people are coming in a steady stream. Every train leaving St. Paul since the opening of through transportation has carried its quota of second-class passengers for points west of Spokane Falls. The whole number so destined leaving St. Paul between the 1st and 20th of the current month was 831. And it should be remembered that this does not include the through first-class passengers, many of whom are people of means coming here to locate permanently. The land department of the Northern Pacific carefully looks after the interests of these new comers. Mr C V Hanson, long connected with the immigration bureau here, boards west bound trains either at Missoula or Helena and furnishes immigrants the information with reference to land, railroad or government, which they may desire, and gives them the proper local direction to points for which they may be destined. He further looks after their interests in protecting them against imposition and fraud on the part of conscienceless sharpers who are in wait on every hand to make victims of inexperienced travelers. So far, but few of the new comers have reached Portland. They drop off at Spokane Falls, Cheney and Sprague, and go into the country about Walla Walla. Northern Idaho attracts many, the region about Farmington and Moscow being the objective point with many. Some, however, to western Oregon, and a few have gone to Puget Sound. This movement, it is thought will continue in a small way through the winter, and in the spring we shall, without doubt, have a grand tidal wave of immigration. The character of the new-comers is of the best. People who are not both intelligent and self reliant do not push across the continent to find homes when they must pass tempting invitations at fifty points on the way. And, too, they are as a rule people of substance. The pauper class dumped on the Atlantic coast, has not the means if it had the desire, to come three thousand miles west to the Pacific coast. We shall have no penniless refuse from Europe. The cost of crossing the continent will always protect us from this undesirable class.

Ward H. Lamon, who wrote a life of Abraham Lincoln for the purpose of taking the gilt edge off from Lincoln's memory, is again defending his book from the charge that in it he threw doubt upon Lincoln's legitimacy. Lamon certainly did say that there was no evidence but of "mutual acknowledgement and cohabitation" as to the marriage of Lincoln's father and mother. This, like many other parts of the gossip in Lamon's biography proves to be utterly unfounded. The original marriage certificate was found by a Kentucky lawyer when this question first came up and sent to Mr Bristow.

The president has again proved his possession of the quality of hard common sense. A lieutenant of cavalry was lately court martialed and dismissed from the service because he married a woman who had been his mistress. There was no offense to military morals while he lived in illicit relations but his partial atonement for the wrong doing by giving the honor of a wife's place to the woman who had shared his guilt, was shocking to army ethics. The president promptly disapproved the finding of the court martial and set aside the dismissal.

The market value of butter produced in Maine last year was $8,500,000. A good market is found for it because it is a firstclass article. With natural facilities for butter-making in Oregon far superior to those in Maine, our state does not produce half enough for the use of its own population.

HUMAN LEATHER

The senate committee on labor and education, after hearing a surprising number of cranks express their views on everything contained in their philosophy, has at last come to the "human hide industry," which has its seat in the state of Massachusetts. A special dispatch from Boston to this paper says that on Saturday the committee heard testimony relative to this industry, and that one witness had seen "whole hides of women tanned which looked natural," and another witness had carried a piece in his pocket for two years. We refer to this testimony not so much for the purpose of discrediting it as to show how perfectly it illustrates the art and power of demagogy. There is nothing more revolting in a piece of tanned human skin than in preserved human bones. But because the latter are common and the former rare there is a chance to excite feeling in reference to the human hide industry which a whole galaxy of skeletons could not move. In every museum of natural history in the world there are scores of skeletons which provoke no more curiosity or criticism than the bones of horses and in many museums "the Egyptian mummies which Cambyses or time hath spared" are displayed skins and bones et cetera. In the stately language of the "Urn Burial" "mummy is become merchandise, Mizraim cures wounds and Pharaoh is sold for balsams." We see Hamlet on the stage take up the skull and say "that skull had a tongue once and did speak" without a feeling of outrage. We enter doctors' offices, drug stores and the rooms of Bohemians and encounter the grinning presence of skulls and cross bones without a shudder. So accustomed have we become to bones that it would not startle a whole state and attract the attention of a senate committee if it should be officially announced that the articulation of human skeletons was a well recognized industry. These things might all "overcome us as a summer shower" or an Oregon mist without calling for a protest.

But the human hide industry is a tragical abomination, as great and dreadful as to be "gnawed out of graves to have our skulls made drinking bowls and our bones turned into pipes to delight and sport our enemies." Why preserved skin should excite so much more the feelings of horror no one can tell. "Handsome formed skulls give some analogy to fleshly resemblance. Even color is not beyond conjecture since it is hard to be deceived in the distinction of negro skulls. Dante's characters are to be found in skulls as well as faces. Physiognomy outlives ourselves and ends not in our graves." But there is no doubt that "human hides" do excite more horror than bones, and the demagogue knows it. This is his art, to know by what means the popular prejudices can be most powerfully excited. Every one knows the purpose of the governor of Massachusetts, who takes the three pieces of tanned human skin out of his pocket and unfurls them on the stump. He is seeking the votes of ignorant foreigners who yet have intelligence enough to know that the inmates of almshouses, as well as prisons and workhouses, are mostly foreigners, and who still cherish some sentiment for the disposition of their bodies after death, although they grossly abuse them while living. Governor Butler knows that these ignorant foreign people, though they never read Charles Lamb's essay on the "Character of an Undertaker," have the desire common to all our race, that the grave should have its full and unimpaired tribute—a complete and just carcass. In this feeling the demagogue securely trusts, while getting up a corner on all the human skin in Massachusetts. He has, according to the unchallenged statement of a reputable tanner, all that ever entered or left his tannery, three pieces which were taken from a subject in a dissecting room, and tanned as a scientific experiment. But they are enough for his purpose as good as a whole "Morgan until after election."

The demagogue may, after all unwittingly do some good by exhibiting his Tewksbury leather. For as Charles Lamb says "Nothing tends to keep up, in the imagination of the poorer sort of people, a generous horror of the workhouse more than the manner in which pauper funerals are conducted. The coffin, nothing but a few naked planks coarsely put together, the want of a pall (that decent and well-imagined veil which hiding the coffin that hides the body, keeps that which would shock us at two removes from us); the colored coats of the men that are hired at cheap rates to carry the body—altogether give the notion of the deceased having been one who may not claim the entire rites of Christian burial—one by whom some parts of the sacred ceremony would be desecrated if they should be bestowed upon him." If Governor Butler should frighten any of his constituents into so reforming their lives that they would not be compelled to go to Tewksbury it would be unintentional on his part. He appeals to their prejudices for a selfish purpose of his own—to get votes. But he uses the human leather argument also because it is the nature of a demagogue to appeal to the lowest motives and passions of his race. His imagination, naturally unsweet, delights in raking into every species of moral filth, preying upon sore places, and takes "pleasure in exposing the unsound and rotten parts of human nature."

At the same time the demagogue often, as in this instance, addresses base and false arguments to upright and healthy sensibilities. To quote once more from Sir Thomas Brown: "Christians have handsomely glossed the deformity of death by careful consideration of the body and civil rites which take off brutal terminations, and though they conceived all reparable by the resurrection, cast not off all care of interment." This sentiment for the body, which is so strong as to have restrained bad women from suicide on the threat of having their bodies publicly exposed after being taken from the Seine, is understood by the demagogue. He knows that while there is really nothing worthy of notice in the fact that a few small pieces of human skin have been tanned as a scientific experiment, there is enough in it nevertheless to constitute the basis of a very effective ad captandum argument which decent people cannot without much trouble overcome. This is the demagogue's art.

The people who look only at the life and drum history of this world, are wholly unaware of the vast magnitude of the work which the Protestants of this country are doing for the civilization of the world, through their missionary enterprises. The triennial report at the Episcopal convention in Philadelphia shows a total income of $1,169 658 for mission purposes. The home secretary of the American Board of Foreign Missions speaking in Detroit this week, said that two million dollars were needed economically to accomplish the work planned for 1884. These sums are raised largely by minute contributions, and are of course purely voluntary.

The New England republican journals generally deprecate the expression of Senator Edmunds in the Episcopal convention last week that he was "not a candidate for president for this or any other place, at this or any other time." The Portland Press significantly says "The republican party and the people may make a demand upon him which he would not be at liberty to disregard." The Boston Herald says he is the only republican who can carry New York. Since the Ohio election the politicians may be inclined to take a man the people want for a candidate, rather than one they want. Edmunds is not the man the politicians have wanted.

David Davis and Roscoe Conkling are confident of an early smash up of the existing chief political parties. Out of the wreck they expect to see evolved "a new independent national party of broad ideas, into which all classes and sections can come." The fact that these gentlemen are among the "outs" of the present parties, may or may not have a bearing upon their belief in a new party.

VITICULTURE IN OREGON

Hardly a day passes over but we hear some stalwart young fellow say, "Well, I agree with you that everybody trying to live in Portland will never make a great state out of Oregon, but what am I to do? Suppose I throw up my clerkship and go out into Benton, Polk, Yamhill or Linn counties what is there open to me? Grain growing takes a character of land that men don't care to sell except at prices that leave but little profit for the purchaser and hops are not a staple article. This is not a country like California where the products of the tropics grow side by side with those of the temperate zone."

And what the young man says contains considerable solid truth but the fact is that the extension of the Oregon and California railroad into the counties of Jackson and Josephine is going to revolutionize more than one of our local industries. This year the city of Portland brought up an average of 80 tons per trip or 640 tons per month by the San Francisco steamships of California grown grapes, peaches and other fruits that could as well have been produced in southern Oregon as in California had the means of cheap transportation been placed within our reach. But within another year the iron horse will be snorting through the Rogue river valley which has a climate fully equal to any portion of California and can produce grapes of equal quality, though perhaps not in as great quantity as the best vineyards of Sonoma or Los Angeles.

The idea of planting vineyards upon the rich black lands of the valleys has long since become exploded in California which never did produce a really palatable article of table claret until the valley lands were abandoned in favor of the red gravel lands of the hillsides. The best wine grapes grown in California are about Auburn and Coloma where the native growth is the manzanita, a shrub which abounds all over Jackson and Josephine counties. The lands which grow this shrub cannot be made available for either hop culture or grain growing and hence they are valuable for nothing else but grapes. Thousands of acres in the two counties above named can be had at the government price of $1 25 per acre but the careful grape grower should be careful to plant only upon lands having an exposure to the south and to give hillside lands the preference over the valley lands.

In California the grape crop is sold from $18 to $40 per ton, to be picked at the purchaser's expense. The red hills, which produce the best grapes for wine, seldom yield more than one ton per acre, so that the deficiency in crop is more than offset by increase in price. The Liber Zagos grape which is grown exclusively for raisins (and for no other reasons), we do not believe adapted to cultivation so far north. But the White Chasselas, Victoire de Corinthe, Flaming Tokay, Morocco, Black Hamburg and Orleans Riesling which are French and German grapes will certainly thrive in those counties, and the man who would grow them at a profit must begin now. It will not do to wait until the railroad is running direct from San Francisco to Portland for a beginning. The vines should be planted next March so that they will be in bearing condition by 1885. If a man can get $1500 per year from 100 acres of grapes it is a pretty good living for him and after the second year it does not involve more than sixty days labor per annum.

With reference to irrigation (for it does not rain in Jackson or Josephine as it does here in Portland) the producer must be governed entirely by his market. If he produces grapes for wine making he need not irrigate his vines after they begin to bear but if he grows them for the table then he should irrigate his vines in order that he may produce the largest possible grapes and the heaviest bunches. Of course it would be necessary to give special rates on grapes so that the vine growers of these counties could sell their grapes as cheaply here as those grown in California. As fruit is now brought hither from California carried on the decks of ocean steamers the loss by rain or spray is from 12 to 20 per cent according to the severity of the weather on the trip. But on grapes brought through in say twenty hours (for Jacksonville is about 287 miles from here) the damage would not be [illegible] per cent, so that there would be a greater margin of profit for the retailer in Portland. Now is the time for plucky young men to go out into the red lands of Josephine and Jackson, and grub up the manzanita bushes while the ground is soft for rain. Let them plant good vines and thoroughly cultivate their vineyards and they will soon lay the foundation of material wealth and permanent prosperity.

The Oregon and Transcontinental it is asserted still holds in its treasury the amount of the stocks which the annual issue of June 30 calls for, namely 162,792 shares of Northern Pacific (151,300 preferred) and 128,535 Oregon Railway and Navigation Company.

The Portland Infamy

Olympia Transcript

The worst feature of American politics let the parties be what they may is the tendency to trade or sell positions in office bartering the emoluments which one official may control to another and joining in combinations to carry out their ends to make money, control other officers or to defeat the will of the people or the intent of the laws of the land. It is a fact too plain to be denied or successfully controverted that we are cursed with a class of mercenary politicians who make these ends life's study and whether they sit in the halls of congress or manipulate the simplest affairs in local matters their baneful influence is always felt. No party is exempt from these vampires that prey upon the body politic. We find them in the Credit Mobilier, in whisky rings, in star route cases, in legislative trades and bargains, and down to the county officers in almost every state and territory. In cities, the government is often under the control of such dishonest rogues, though it is seldom that an arch fiend like Tweed is thoroughly exposed and brought to justice. In a case like the recent one of the mayor of Portland bartering the emoluments of his position before his election there can be no more disgraceful prostitution of an otherwise honorable and important office. There are no terms of denunciation too severe for such acts of corruption and villainy as were exposed in this shameful contract. We are glad that such a prominent and widely read journal as THE OREGONIAN has the fearlessness to place this matter before the public in its true light. Every newspaper in the country that appreciates right and justice and purity in the administration of government, especially in municipal affairs ought to support that paper in its condemnation of Portland's present mayor. The principle at stake is not simply a local issue but one which affects other cities and communities and cannot be violated with impunity. Every case of this kind which is allowed to pass without the censure it deserves, gives assurance to others that they may commit similar dishonest and reprehensible acts on their communities without receiving public censure and merited punishment. Honest men are becoming tired of trades and bargains by office holders and disgusted with office seeking in every shape and phase.

Unparalleled Effrontery

Sacramento Record Union

What the San Francisco Examiner will not snap at to advance the front of its party is not worth the taking. It has the hardihood now to work up an interview article, intended to convey the idea that the colored voters will desert from the republican party because of the recent decision of the supreme court—as if that had anything under the sun to do with party politics. The republican party gave the negro the civil rights bill, it seated him in the jury box, it made him a competent witness, it made him the equal of the white man before the law, it throttled the democracy when it would have held him in bondage, it gave and secures to him every right he has in the republic and yet it is boldly asserted by the organs of the obstructionists that because of a constitutional construction he will change his politics and go over to the party which as a South Carolina ex congressman and democrat recently said in his state has "left the negro but one right—the right to go off and die."

The Iowa Election

Ex Governor Merrill of Iowa says:

While the republicans came out ahead by a reduced majority, they would not have had any majority whatever had they failed to assume the position which they did. They were bound to carry out the will of the people with respect to the prohibition amendment, as expressed at the non partisan election of June 1882. I feel entire confidence in the legislature's purpose and ability to pass a prohibitory law for, while the republican majority in the house is small, it is sufficient. With a large republican majority on joint ballot, Senator Allison's re election is assured, and will be accomplished I think, almost without a contest.

Still They Come.

Weston Leader

The Chapman & Bosser contract at Portland, ranks among the boldest infamies of modern politics, and could only be made by men who have the cool impudence at present exhibited by the former in defiantly entrenching himself in his disgraceful position. It is refreshing to read the OREGONIAN'S raids upon him. If such contracts are permitted to pass unpunished, political purity is a memory.

INDIAN RESERVATIONS.

Discussion of the Subject as Presented in Oregon and Washington.

Walla Walla Watchman

In Washington territory particularly, more than any other part of the United States, the fact that a large part of the best lands of the territory are doomed to barbarism and withheld by law from producing what God intended they should for the sustenance of humanity is continually staring the people in the face. Such is the Umatilla reservation capable of producing enough to support a million of human beings. The Puyallup reservation excludes from settlement the best lands on the sound. The Simcoe reservation locks up the cream of Yakima valley. The Okanagans to the north have set apart for their exclusive use some of the best lands of the upper Columbia as a pleasure ground for those vagabonds to hunt and fish over and wherever there is an Indian in the territory he is made a preferred subject of the government and given rights which everyone having the misfortune to have a white skin is bound to respect.

The question is continually recurring to men of average intelligence why these things should be thus. The false sentimentality of the east urges that the Indians were here first and are the absolute owners of the land. There is no such thing anywhere as absolute ownership in land. It is the gift of the great creator for the use and [illegible] of the teeming masses of humanity that are destined to pass a brief period on its surface. Its use and enjoyment are governed by such statutory regulations as are deemed best for the general [illegible]. The right of eminent domain [illegible] in the government which, with us is the people. If the people need any man's land for a street or public highway, a railroad or canal, or other purpose in which the public good is involved, it has asserted its right, ever since the world stood, to condemn such land to such uses.

The question of the absolute ownership of land can be better illustrated perhaps by imagining what would have been the condition of things in case the first discoverer of any of our large and fertile islands had laid claim to exclusive ownership to his discovery. Does any one for a moment imagine that subsequent comers would have respected any such claim? They would tell the claimant that they too had a right to live and draw their subsistence from the common mother earth. In this country the population is not so over crowded as to force these questions upon public attention but in parts of Europe the hungry and ragged Scotch or Irish youth looking over the vast pleasure grounds and parks of the aristocracy while he is suffering for the necessaries of life curses the rider of things that create such disparity of condition and becomes by the most ordinary investigation of the relations of men to each other and to their maker a socialist and by the natural progress of human reasoning proceeds to extremes that are revolutionary and subversive of the foundations of society. That there is something radically wrong in the matter of land tenure in Europe is attested by the fact that the most enlightened minds there are investigating and studying for a solution of this question.

There is no view of the subject in which the right of an Indian to lands he does not use can be maintained. The era of pure sentiment with which this question used to be regarded is giving place to an era in which it will be solved by the stern logic of facts. The general sense of enlightened public men now favors the allotment of lands to Indians in severalty—the surrender of all [illegible] land as will enable him to support himself through his own exertions. The laws of society take care of vagrants there does not appear to be any good reason why an Indian vagrant should be above law. There does not appear, either, to be any good reason why an Indian should not be equally amenable to law with the white subject of the government. Laws are framed with a view to the general good, penalties are inflicted to promote peace and good order among men. What is good for us is manifestly good for the Indian. He has a common interest with us in the protection of his property and personal rights. He can find no place in our social fabric that will give him absolute independence any more than the foreigner coming to our shores can be permitted to retain his foreign allegiance. The government has about quit recognizing Indians as an independent nationality within its domain. When it shall have entirely divorced itself from this error the question of the civilization of the Indian will be on the road to an assured realization. If society permitted its white members to lead the lives of vagrants they would soon degenerate to barbarism. The highest good that can be forced upon an Indian is to present to him the alternative "root hog or die." Our public men should spare no pains to enforce these substantial axiomatic truths in season and out of season with line upon line and precept upon precept.

The valley of the upper Columbia is an illustration of the force of these views as applied to this question. Twenty years ago it gave sustenance to a handful of beggarly and vagabond Indians. It was isolated from market and practically inaccessible. It possessed a climate that was regarded as rigorous and a soil considered inhospitable. It now supports a population of [illegible]. Energetic, brave hearts have subdued the wilderness and hewn out the highways of commerce. Its reputation for fertility extends to the uttermost parts of the earth. It sends to hungry millions across the sea their food supply. Cities and towns, churches and school houses mark the spot of the barbaric wigwam. Where the sneaking [illegible] [illegible] along the trail of the panting deer are now the fields and herds of civilization. The change excites the astonishment of [illegible] and is worthy of [illegible]. In tracing the world's history from the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] this age will stand in the annals of history as the [illegible]. If [illegible] is not a failure [illegible] the plow fully [illegible] place of the bow and [illegible].

EXPLANATION

FOR THE INFORMATION OF MANY INQUIRERS we desire to explain that the system of buying and selling stocks upon a margin is the method by which the greater part of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Northern Pacific preferred was purchased early last week at [illegible] per share, and it advanced to [illegible] during the week [illegible] on the transaction would be $1000 less expenses of commission and interest [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for an indefinite period by paying the interest on balance due and keeping margin good in case of a decline. There can be no speculation which does not involve risk and those who speculate in stocks or anything else must be prepared for losses as well as gains.

BREAKFAST.

By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame.—Civil Service Gazette.

AND SUNDAY CHARGES.—George Walles took place at Sam Neville's infamous den on night. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning a prostitute known by the name of Emma came down from Neville's place and asked to convey her home. They had the corner of First and Alder, when they overtaken by Jordan, who, after some vile threatened to pull the woman's hair out remonstrated when Jordan partially drew his and threatened to shoot the officer. A crowd around and Jordan was hustled into and driven off. Later he was arrested at bagnio, where it appears he has his abode separate charges were booked against him. In police court, yesterday R E Bybee appeared for and entered a demurrer to the charge of cara concealed weapon on the ground that the allows every white citizen to keep certain for his defense, and he was therefore enti-to carry them. City Attorney Dement claimed city had the power to forbid him from car-weapons concealed. Mr Bybee said the no more right to define how a man should Transcontinental. He desired to make a of this. The case as also the three other were continued till to day.

PILOTS WERE TAKEN TO SEA.—A gentle-is thoroughly conversant with all the cir-gave to an OREGONIAN reporter the folrelative to pilots Woods and Matthews been taken to sea. Under the Oregon pilotage pilots must be provided with some sailing must cruise off the mouth of the Columbia lookout for vessels. The pilots have de-altogether on the schooner J C Cousins to off when they piloted vessels out and remake arrangements with the tugs to carry back to Astoria. On the day that the pilots out to sea, neither the pilots nor the at Astoria knew that the Cousins had wrecked, but supposed that she was cruising coast and would put to the north and take off. The unpleasant occurrence was due ento the ignorance of the accident to the
and was not spite work of the tugs as read be led to suppose from accounts hereto-published.

DOWN A HATCHWAY.—The well-known crockmerchant A. Lobe met with a serious and pain-accident on Saturday afternoon, which will pre him from attending to business for some time.
went into 2 Bros. establishment to pur-some baskets and was sent to the rear of the to find what he wanted. While looking up at hanging from the joists he stepped back down a hatchway into the cellar, falling a dis-of eight feet. Fortunately he did not accidents.

D.—The suit brought by against the North Pacific Land and Immigration Company was decided yesterday in circuit court in favor of the defendant.
sued was for services rendered the com-their attorney during their early prosper-for which he got no compensation. The moneof these services he failed to make quite clear the above decision.

DAMAGED.—The steamer Bonanza is unto the dry dock at Oregon City. A owing to the stage of water in the she went aground against a snag, break-two of her frames and four timbers broken, her wheel damaged, and was broken off. She will be off next the Oriental will be put in dock for painting.

THE SHOOTING AT VANCOUVER.—A correspondent at Vancouver states that the name of the soldier accidentally shot at the barracks there on Friday night was Michael Rosleigh. Some who appear to know him say his real name was John Kelly and that he has relatives living at Bridgeport, Connecticut. He was a member of Battery E. There is no doubt but that the shooting was purely accidental, as he and Shea were great friends and were out on the night in question drinking together. Shea as soon as he found that his companion had been wounded went to a comrade's room and implored him to go for a doctor, stating that his pistol had gone off and he had shot Rosleigh. Deceased was a young man, a native of Ireland, and was for a long time in the British service, having been through the Egyptian campaign. He joined the battery last August. He was a good soldier, willing, quiet and orderly when sober. The funeral took place on Sunday, seven companies turning out and a salute being fired from the battery's 12 pounders. A handsome coffin was furnished by Major Taylor.

HE STRUCK BACK.—Robert Hannon, night watchman at the Sailors' Home, was up in the police court for assault and battery on one of the guests of that institution. The aforesaid guest looked as if he had been roughly handled. He stated that he had applied for admission about 1 o'clock in the morning and had been refused, and upon insisting upon his right to enter was beaten. Hannon stated that he had strict orders not to admit any one after midnight, and that the complaining witness had ordered him to open the door or he would break it in. In the argument which followed Hannon was struck and in self defense struck back. The judge thought that from the forcible manner in which he appeared to have struck back he could afford to pay $15 for his fun.

ACCIDENT TO A SOMNAMBULIST.—Mrs. Mary Millard, aged 77 years, while walking in her sleep about 4 o'clock yesterday morning fell down a stair case leading to the back yard of her residence on Yamhill street. She received a severe cut upon her head and had one of her wrists broken by the fall. Serious apprehensions are entertained that the combined effects of the injuries and the severe shock sustained may prove fatal. Miss Emma, a daughter of Mrs. Millard, is reported in a very critical condition from an attack of pneumonia. Mrs. Millard is not a professional somnambulist, but has been much broken of her rest lately through anxiety for her daughter, and it was this that caused her sleep walking at the time of the accident.

REPAIRS FINISHED.—The repairs to the bark C. D. Bryant have been completed and she is now as tight as a drum. It was insisted by some that the ship could not be hove down and repaired here and that she must go to San Francisco. But these ideas have been proved false, and the captain of the Bryant is much pleased both with the workmanlike manner in which his craft has been repaired and at the cheapness with which it was done. He is now in condition to secure a charter in more favorable terms than if he had gone to San Francisco, as freights are low there at present. It is yet undecided whether the Bryant will load with wheat for England or go on the berth for China.

SALMON FOR NEW ORLEANS.—The market for salmon still remains dull and in the absence of foreign demand cannerymen are selling small lots in different parts of the union. J. & V. Cook a day or two since shipped two car loads more to New York and two car loads came up last night to be shipped to New Orleans. The low prices and slow market ruling this season will probably have the effect of reducing the number of canneries next year, especially as it is believed by many that the large run of this year was the result of the young fish put in the river from the hatchery on the Clackamas, and that there is no prospect for a continuance of the supply unless the business of hatching is resumed.

WRIST SPRAINED.—Mrs. Seneca Smith suffered a severe sprain of one of her wrists in a very singular manner yesterday afternoon. She came into town from her residence in the suburbs with a horse and buggy, and while seated in the latter, awaiting some parcels which she had ordered in a store, a careless driver of a heavy wagon passed by and struck the buggy, nearly throwing her out. In the effort to save herself from falling, her wrist was sprained. Although the injured member swelled badly and gave much pain Mrs. Smith refused the assistance of a friend, who witnessed the occurrence, and saying she could easily care for it herself drove away for her home.

PARTLY ROBBED.—The hotels of this city are crowded now, none more than the St. Charles. In order to accommodate the numerous guests it is found necessary to put up a lot of cot beds. Yesterday morning one of the lodgers, who had retired to sleep on one of these cots with $8 in his pants pocket, was startled to find the money gone. He was relieved, however, to find that $3000 which he had tucked into his stocking leg was intact. Next time he will put his small change into his stocking too—and lose the whole caboodle.

BACK FROM PRISON.—A deputy sheriff went to Salem yesterday to bring back to Portland Jean Oliver, a young convict in the penitentiary who was sent up for three years imprisonment for larceny in a dwelling. Oliver is wanted in the state circuit court to testify in the case of the state of Oregon vs. Sam Kishl, another young hoodlum and his former pal, who will be tried to-day. The crime for which these two were indicted was committed in a residence at Sellwood during last August.

THE MORRISON STREET BRIDGE PROCEEDINGS.—Another step toward the bridge across the Willamette was made yesterday, Judge Deady having granted an appeal to the supreme court of the United States in the case of Hatch et al vs the Willamette Bridge Company. Just how long it will take to get a decision on the matter in the supreme court no one can tell, but when that decision is reached it will probably settle the question as to whether a bridge will be built or not.

TIRED OF MANITOBA.—Several emigrants from Manitoba left for Roseburg this morning, looking for places to locate in southern Oregon. One of them yesterday stated to an OREGONIAN reporter that he was originally from Canada and had tired of Manitoba on account of the long cold winter. He had heard of the delightful climate and fertile soil of southern Oregon and wants to live where he will not have to wade in snow six months of the year.

MORE EVENING CLASSES.—Classes for young men in German and singing were commenced last evening at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Twenty-four have entered the German class, and nearly fifty are taking instructions under Professor G. W. Jackson in singing.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE TIME CHANGED.—State Superintendent McElroy has changed the time for holding the regular institute for this judicial district from December 24-27 to Friday and Saturday, November 30 and December 1.

BRIEF MENTION.

Chispa to-night.

The Willamette Farmer has been removed to Salem.

Seventy-nine emigrant passengers left St Paul for Portland Saturday.

The papers in the case of Halsey vs Holladay were served by the United States marshal yesterday.

Passengers to arrive from St Paul to-morrow night: Rev. W. R. Stevenson and wife and Rev. H. T. White.

IMPORTANT CITY PURCHASES.

We take the following from the San Francisco Evening Post. It speaks for itself. It is quite probable the company will erect a brick building in this city at no distant date:

When Macaulay, speculating upon the future of empire, imagined a New Zealander sitting on London bridge sketching the surrounding ruins, he had a shrewd inkling of "the coming race"—not the Maori, but the Anglo-Saxon kings of the cannibal islands. No other Anglo-Saxon community outside the United States has a tithe of the push, energy and enterprise of New Zealand. Its financial and fiduciary institutions have taken root in California and are about to send forth a vigorous shoot. Hugh Craig, agent for the New Zealand Insurance Company, concluded the purchase of the following city properties this forenoon on behalf of that company—namely: From Sir Robert Burnett 40 feet on California street, running through to Halleck street. From Moses Rosenbaum 20 feet on California street, with a depth of 70 feet, and from the heirs of the Newhall estate 20 feet on Halleck street, at rear of Rosenbaum's property, thus making a block of 60 feet frontage to California street with depth of 124 feet through to Halleck street.

This valuable property will soon be improved. Plans and elevation of a handsome six story pressed brick and granite building are now in the hands of the head office of the New Zealand Insurance Company for approval. This is an example worthy of imitation by British and foreign companies doing business in San Francisco. They are, one and all, without local habitation worthy their name or reputation. The New Zealand Insurance Company has come here to stay, and means to bind with golden links the most progressive of British colonies with the golden state of California. Thus colonial capital is pouring in to beautify and improve our city.

"CHISPA."

Opening Night of a California Backwoods Play at New Market Theater—A Success Scored.

"Chispa" was given at New Market theater last night to a crowded house, up stairs and down. It is a typical backwoods play of the Davy Crockett sort and has small literary merit. There is enough plot to sustain interest and the end of the play is by no means indicated in the first part. The story is as follows: Zeke Stephens (Mr. Grismer), Old Calamity (Miss Mabel Bert) and the child Chispa are the only survivors of an emigrant train crossing the Mojave desert, the remainder having died of starvation and thirst. One man of the party, Jim Downey (Frederic Corbett), deserts them, taking the only pony. In his flight he accidentally kills Chispa's mother, and Zeke pledges the dying woman to care for the child. The play proper opens with Zeke as proprietor of a saw mill in the mountains, surrounded by a gang of sturdy, honest men, and Chispa, now sixteen years old, a child of nature, who knows only how to shoot, run, climb trees and to speak in the rude language of the men around her. One of her companions is Indian Jack (George Osbourne). Jim Downey turns up at the same mill as a city gentleman, accompanied by his alleged daughter and her governess. Chispa falls in love with Downey and tires of Zeke, who has loved her secretly these many years. Downey is shot by the Indian at the instigation of Frank Fairfax, an extraneous character, and Zeke is arrested for the crime. Chispa has knowledge that Zeke is innocent and comes forward with her testimony, which clears him. A natural inference is that Chispa will join her city friends and emerge at the end of the play a boarding school miss. But she doesn't. After much misunderstanding and sorrow, by which she goes mad for a time, Chispa finds a haven of rest in faithful Zeke's arms.

There is no question that Mr. Grismer and his talented wife, Miss Phoebe Davies, have a strong hold on the theater goers of Portland, and last night's performance made the hold stronger. Each, at first appearance, was greeted with a cordial welcome. To the role of Chispa, the careless, wild, impulsive, honest, ignorant, loving mountain girl, Miss Davies brought greater powers than are required in any other role she has essayed here, and her interpretations of a character which changes almost with every breath were most excellent. In the mad scene her acting was superb and merits a place alongside of celebrated Lady Macbeths and Ophelias. Mr. Grismer, as the backwoods hero, was all that could be desired, giving to the part of Zeke the requisite earnestness and manliness and the finesse for which he is noted. Mr. Osbourne's Indian Jack was capital in make up, language, walk and gesture. It may be truthfully said that he has created a fine comedy part out of the most unpromising material—a siwash. Willie Simms was at home in the role of Dock Jones, the camp oracle. It is not altogether unlike Mr. Jarvis, the showman in the "Lights o' London," and Mr. Simms handled it very well. The audience also showed him that they remembered and admired him by a hearty greeting when he made his appearance. The remainder of the support was satisfactory.

There was enough in the play to hold attention to the end and to bring out applause and hearty laughter. The curtain falls each time on beautiful tableaux. Much praise is due for the very fine scenery and stage settings, all of which were new. "Chispa" will be given throughout the week and at matinee Saturday.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The attendance at the fair last night was not, of course, so large as on Saturday night, but it was much larger than on the corresponding night of last week. About two thousand people were present, and the pavilion presented the usual brilliant and animated scene. Following is the musical programme for to-night:

PROGRAMME

Part 1
1 March—State Camp	Weingarten
2 Overture—Le Tambour de la Garde	Titl
3 Waltz—Violets	Waldteufel
4 Paraphrase—"Lovely"	Nesvadba
5 Mazurka—"Odaliska"	Heinzemann
Part 2
1 Selection—"The Pretty Perfumer"	Offenbach
2 Quadrille—Merry War	Strauss
3 Medley—Musical Reminiscences	Barth
4 Song without words	Mendelssohn
5 Galop—"Fedora"	Dietrich

CABINET OF MINERALS

The collection of minerals contributed to the fair by Frank J. Parker, proprietor of the Statesman, Walla Walla, is both valuable and interesting. It consists of ores from the mines of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, and is plain proof of the wealth existing in our mountains. Conspicuous by their size and richness are large chunks of ore from Butte. In some instances the silver is so thick on the ore that it looks as though it had been laid on with a whitewash brush, while others are dotted with minute particles which so blends with the rock that with all its richness, without close examination, it is hardly discernable. The Bell, Lexington, Gaynor, Moulton, Alice, Parrott and other Butte mines are represented. There are also ores from Idaho and samples from the mines of Old Owyhee, as the Poorman, North Star, War Eagle, which stir up reminiscences of early days when some of these very specimens caused [illegible] rival laments to the wonderful richness that were developed. Some samples weighing pounds are worth eight dollars per ounce and are composed entirely of gold and silver. Specimens from the recently discovered silver ledges in Colville valley, which are owned by Spokane Falls parties, are also worthy of attention.

Eastern Oregon is well represented by ore from the Monumental, Morning Glory and Tiger silver bearing ledges in Grant county, and from the Calumet copper mine in Union county. This latter mine is likely at any time to cause a sensation in mining circles, as the ore is undeniably rich in gold and silver as well as copper. Work has been progressing on the ledge all the past summer and it is the intention of the owners to place a mill upon it early in the spring.

BLANK BOOKS

The blank books on exhibition are from the Statesman bindery, Walla Walla, owned by Frank J. Parker. They consist of county records, a ledger and music book, bound in the highest and most costly style. It speaks well for Walla Walla enterprise that such fine specimens of work should be turned out there, for better work could not be done in any bindery in this city.

Special Exhibits.

WHITTIER, FULLER & CO.

The exhibit of this well known house occupies a prominent position on the main floor, near the entrance to the floral garden, and attracts much attention. It consists of a great variety of merchandise in the paints, oils and brushes line, beautifully displayed, the symmetry of design and arrangement of colors being really very beautiful. This firm established its Portland branch some months ago at No. 50 Front street, with C. A. Plummer as agent, and from the beginning has done an extensive business. It carries a much larger and more varied stock than any other house in its line, and offers a range to purchasers to be found nowhere else in the city. In an exhibit containing hundreds of samples it is difficult to particularize, but perhaps the most popular articles in it are the Pioneer White Lead and the Pacific Rubber paints. These have stood the test of our climate for years and now have the call in the market, being highly prized for brilliancy, durability and cheapness.

DAYTON, HALL & LAMBERSON

Make a fine display of hardware, tools, etc., their exhibit being located on the main floor near the entrance to machinery hall. It is composed of tools of all kinds, a fine assortment of fishing tackle, shelf goods in great variety and a general assortment of things to be found in first class hardware houses. The exhibit is in keeping with the widely known character of the house—first class in every particular. Dayton, Hall & Lamberson began business in Portland about seven years ago in a small way, and have attained first class rank. Their large stock fills the building on the north side of Taylor street, extending from First to Front, and their trade extends throughout Oregon and Washington and as far as Idaho and British Columbia. Strict integrity, prompt business methods, fair prices and courteous treatment of customers have given the firm its prosperity and its fair name.

H. SINSHEIMER

It is hardly necessary to speak of this well known music dealer or of the instruments in his stock. Both are known to be first class and reliable. Mr. Sinsheimer's exhibit attracts much attention.

W. PRENTICE

Who is located in the western end of the pavilion as usual, makes a fine display of pianos, organs and general musical instruments. Mr. Prentice is famed for selling good goods and for always telling the exact truth about them. His display is one of the finest in the musical line.

J. DUNNER

Dispenses candy and soda water in great quantity, and his stand is the center of sociability and a favorite place of resort. His candies are of the purest and best.

[illegible]

Make interesting changes in their exhibit of picture frames and decorative articles each evening, and a visit to the fair is not complete without viewing their display at the east end of the main floor.

OREGON MILLING CO.

The fine exhibit of flour in white silk and satin bags in the products hall is by the Oregon Milling Company. A sample of what may be done with this flour is shown by the display of fresh bread made from it. The flour cannot be excelled in Oregon or elsewhere. The exhibit is particularly worthy as being an Oregon product made of Oregon wheat, and the beauty of its arrangement is creditable to Oregon good taste.

CHADBOURNE & CO.

This exhibit continues to attract much attention. The happy combination of two or three articles of furniture in one takes the eye of housekeepers, who see in it the solution of a long perplexing domestic problem. The ease and rapidity with which a beautiful side board is transformed into a no less beautiful bed attracts much attention. Chadbourne & Co. have done much to reduce the price of furniture in Oregon and will do more. They appreciate the favor with which they have been treated by the public, and will continue to deserve it.

JOHN CLARK.

The reliable saddler and harness maker shows what can be done in leather in Oregon. His fine exhibit, both of home made and imported goods, is a credit to himself and to the city. He is ready to show that his prices are as low as possibly consistent with first class work and first class stock.

G. SHINDLER & CO.

It is almost impossible for many people to believe that the fine furniture in Shindler's exhibit was made in this state, but it is a fact, and more like it is being made every day at Shindler's factory at Willsburg. Nobody in the state, probably, knows the wants of the furniture trade here so well as Shindler. His long experience, recognized good taste and solid reputation for honest dealing are already well known to the public.

J. E. CARSON

Makes a beautiful display of doors, sash, blinds, etc., in native and imported woods. Visitors from abroad who have viewed his exhibit say that it could not be excelled by any establishment in the United States. And yet the goods displayed are not a show lot, but fair samples of the various kinds of work turned out every day in Carson's factory in North Portland. Mr. Carson's prices are cheap for first-class work.

THE EAST SIDE.

SCHOOL REPORT

The first month of the current school year in district No. 21 (East Portland) terminated on Saturday last, and the report of the principal, Prof. F. A. E. Starr, to the board of directors shows on the whole an encouraging condition. It is as follows:

"Your principal submits for your consideration the following report of the condition of the schools of district No. 21 for the school month ending October 19, 1883:

Number of teachers employed	14
Number of males enrolled	407
Number of females enrolled	[illegible]
Total enrollment	883
Average number per teacher	49
Number of days' attendance	11,500
Number of days absence	526
Average daily attendance	587
Average daily absence	9
Average number belonging	594
Percentage of attendance	[illegible]
Cases of tardiness	36
Visitors	15

"The teachers, with but few exceptions, are doing admirable good work. Some of them are overworked, consequently the best result cannot be expected. The pupils are well behaved and regular in their attendance, and in the main seem to be interested in their studies.

"The new grade work works well and is well adapted to the wants of the school. As yet there is some looseness in the grading, and will be after the regular term examinations.

"As far as we can tell we believe the schools are in a prosperous condition and have obtained a good start for the year's work. Respectfully submitted,

F. A. E. STARR, Principal."

NOTES

A party by the name of Smith, of this city, spent half a day fishing in the Sandy on Saturday last and returned with thirty-four fine salmon trout, aggregating a weight of nearly fifty pounds. He was assisted in the catch by Messrs. R. M. Rafferty and R. I. Gillespie.

Clothes line thieves went their rounds Friday night last and appropriated four sheets and a bed spread from the yard of Mrs. C. J. Ward, corner of Fifth and M streets, and several sheets and pillow slips from that of Mrs. Bruce, Eleventh street, between V and W.

A dispute occurred Saturday last between Mr. A. E. Rankin and a Chinaman concerning the sawing of some wood, which terminated by the Chinaman wresting an ax from the hands of Mrs. R. Shelton made complaint against him before the recorder for assault, was found guilty and fined $20.

The water which settles on Washington and Stephens streets in Stephens' addition, in the vicinity of Ninth and Tenth, [illegible] has long been a source of annoyance and discomfort to the people residing in that locality, and the street commissioner is now taking steps to relieve them of their grievance by digging a ditch which will be the means of draining the water into the asylum slough. They will no doubt appreciate the work when completed, as the street commissioner never digs ditches by halves.

ARE YOU GOING EAST?

If so, please remember that the Royal Route, Chicago and Northwestern Railway, is the great short line between St. Paul and Chicago—running the finest sleeping cars, the dining cars acknowledged by friends and foes to be unequaled. NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

One day last week B. F. Ely, living near Centerville, Umatilla county, lost a valuable span of horses, valued at $400, by falling into a well.

Weston Leader: Another town is about to spring up on Wild Horse on the line of the extension from Pendleton to Walla Walla. It will be situated about eight miles from Pendleton and ten miles from Centerville.

Umatilla Examiner: A number of railroaders got on a spree last Sunday and made things quite lively for a while on Main street. Several fights were indulged in and an immense amount of profanity used before they were finally taken in by our efficient constable.

Southern Oregon.

The teachers' institute for the first judicial district will be held in Ashland during the 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th inst.

Jacksonville Sentinel: N. Langell, deputy collector of internal revenue, returned from an official visit to Klamath county this week. He reports that section of the country improving, especially the town of Linkville.

Ben Connor, formerly a knight of the whip on the O. & C. stage line, but latterly employed at camp 12 on the railroad, had some difficulty with another party the other day, when the other man threw a pan of hot grease into Ben's face, scalding him badly.

A report is in circulation, says the Sentinel, that the commissioners appointed by the president to receive that portion of the railroad running through the Grave creek and Cow creek tunnels have declined accepting it on account of the timbering that was done in the Grave tunnel. The other tunnel is reported to be acceptable.

Democratic Times: From Mr. McGee, who arrived from Siskiyou county last week, we learn that a fatal shooting affray occurred near the bridge across Klamath river in the Shovel creek region a few days since. We have received no further particulars, except that the person killed had made some slanderous remarks concerning the homicide's wife.

A few days ago a drunken row occurred at the tunnel on the Siskiyou mountains, in which a man named Dorsey was shot in the breast by Silas Knight, inflicting a serious but not fatal wound. Knight surrendered himself to the sheriff, but as no warrant had been taken out for his arrest he was ordered released. Parties who saw the row claim that the shooting was justifiable.

The Northern Pacific railroad engineers are surveying a route from Seattle to Whatcom.

Some fifteen families of Russian Finns have settled on the upper Nasel and Salmon creeks in Pacific county.

W. D. B. Newman of Chehalis county, since March 20, has made from nine cows 1800 pounds of butter, being 200 pounds to the cow for the season thus far.

The residence of Henry Wolf, of Sharon, Chehalis county, with all its contents, was destroyed by fire a few nights since, the occupants barely escaping with their lives. Loss $1000.

The Pacific Journal says Jones' Point has been selected as the ocean terminus of the Puget Sound and Gray's Harbor railroad, near which point the channel is twenty-six feet deep at low tide.

A large cougar was killed last Wednesday on the Willapah, in Pacific county, by Messrs. Giesy and Preston, which measured ten feet and three inches. It had been feeding quite extensively on the mutton of that vicinity.

One of the boats belonging to the wrecked schooner Cousins was found on the weather beach near Ilwaco on Thursday. The oars were lashed to the seat, which proves that the men had not used the boat, but were undoubtedly washed overboard by the breakers.

Gus Ericsson, the man who had his skull fractured at the New Tacoma coal bunkers a few days ago, is more seriously injured than at first suspected. He is now lying at the Fanny Paddock hospital in a precarious condition and small hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The Seattle Herald says that the man Morrissey, who was recently arrested, suspected of being the murderer of Geo. Hill, of Yakima county, has been discharged from custody, owing to lack of evidence against him. The authorities of that county took no action in the matter.

Montesano Vidette: Mr. Rice, who has been for some time prospecting along the coast, recently shipped from the north beach to San Francisco 1600 pounds of black sand, to be there put through a new machine which is said to be capable of rapidly and entirely separating the gold therefrom.

An oyster bed in the Willapa channel, opposite North river, in Pacific county, that has not been worked for eighteen or twenty years, has been attracting the attention of oystermen for the past week or more. The little Clark boys took five eight baskets in one tide and sold them for $18. There are about twenty men working there at present.

Says the Pacific Journal: The lighthouse tender Shubrick, Captain Gregory, is engaged this week placing buoys on the bay. The ones now in use are nearly worn out and almost useless, caused by the rust and accumulation of barnacles. Many new ones will necessarily be placed, owing to the increased steamboat traffic on the bay since the last buoys were placed in position.

Whatcom Reveille: The fact that about ten Chinamen leave on every outgoing steamer from Whatcom for every one that arrives by steamer is sufficient evidence of the fact that large numbers are arriving here daily, probably rather from across the boundary line. If the authorities refuse to interfere in our behalf it would be well for a few of our nearest citizens to organize and make an example of a dozen or more of the pigtails. The waters of the bay are very cold and deep.

A correspondent writing from Centerville, Lewis county, says: Diphtheria broke out here last week. Samuel Mills lost two children, and a third is also sick with the diphtheria. The two children (little girls) were buried Saturday the 13th. N. B. Kelsey and wife and two children have the diphtheria. Their little girl Carrie was also buried last Saturday. Mrs. C. Crosby is also sick with the diphtheria. Eugene Moore, aged 7 years, died Sunday morning and was buried to-day. The cause of his death is not known. A. W. Hicks' child is also dangerously ill with diphtheria. R. [illegible] has a child very ill. Others in the neighborhood are more or less afflicted with this disease.

Not a Bad Judgment

The evening before the election in Ohio the Philadelphia Press solicited opinions as to the result from many sources in that state. It got this from the Cincinnati Enquirer:

The total vote in Ohio to-morrow will not exceed 700,000. Hoadly will defeat Foraker by 20,000 votes, and the democrats will carry the legislature by fifteen on joint ballot. Prohibition, which would have carried two weeks ago, will be beaten 10,000, and the legislative control amendment 200,000. Had the republicans rested on the Scott tax law and submitted no amendments they would have swept Ohio by an overwhelming majority. The prohibition strength has alarmed the owners of $100,000,000 worth of property, and republicans who were indifferent two weeks ago are working for the full democratic ticket. Ohio will go as Maine did in 1880. It has been one of the bitterest political fights ever seen in this state.

Too Small a Bait to Catch Big Fish

Chicago Inter Ocean

Canada is trying to hire people to settle its various wildernesses. The large sum of $5 is offered to every able bodied man who will figuratively bury himself in British Columbia. The kind of men to be attracted by such an offer will not make much headway in dragging the dominion to future greatness.

While in St. Paul, Minn., on one occasion, Miss Minnie Palmer tripped on the stage, causing her to sprain her ankle. St. Jacobs Oil was promptly and freely applied, and in two days Miss Minnie was as active as ever.

MOZART'S CLOAKS.

The ladies' and children's cloaks, dolmans and ulsters made by Mozart are much better and far cheaper than the Eastern manufactured garments. The public will do well by visiting Mozart's Cloak and Suit House, No. 70 Morrison street, before buying elsewhere.

MR. VILLARD'S ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY,
PRESIDENT'S OFFICE,
NEW YORK, Oct 11, 1883.

To the Friends of the Northern Pacific in Minnesota, Dakota, Montana, Washington and Oregon.—The memorable journey across the continent, on the occasion of the opening of our main line, is ended. Our American and European guests have returned to their homes. They agree with me that just as the transcontinental excursion never was, and never will be, equaled in point of numbers, character and interest, the demonstrations of popular good will, warm sympathy and genuine joy, to which it gave rise, from the Mississippi to Puget sound, can never be surpassed. We rode, as it were, on a rising tide of popular enthusiasm, from one end of the road to the other, beginning with an extraordinary, almost overwhelming outburst in the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis. It appeared to gain in intensity as we moved westward, until it reached its climax on the Pacific coast in Portland, Tacoma and Seattle.

I perform a most gratifying duty in expressing to the inhabitants of the cities and towns along the Northern Pacific and to the people at large of Minnesota, Dakota, Montana, Washington and Oregon, officially and personally, my most profound thanks for the great honors bestowed upon our company and for the most generous hospitality extended to our guests. It is almost a painful thought that where so much kindness was received everywhere it is impossible to render proper thanks in every case. As it is, I can only avail myself of this method to assure all of our friends that neither the Northern Pacific Company, nor myself personally, will ever forget their goodness to us, and that we hope to prove worthy of the public confidence of which the opening excursion elicited such striking evidence.

H. VILLARD, President.

BROWNSVILLE ITEMS.

FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.

BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 2

Mrs. I. W. Starr is visiting friends in Portland.

James Willson has gone east of the mountains to live.

Mr. Chandler and family have moved from Grande Ronde valley to Brownsville lately.

Yesterday at the Brownsville hotel Mr. Jack Wilbur and Miss Emma Kirk were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

Mr. J. D. Arthurs has gone to Albany to remain a few days, as from there he will go to Portland to attend the United States court.

Isaac Putnam, the boy whose arm was broken last Sunday night, was found upon closer examination to have sustained several other severe bruises and gashes.

A Greatly Clouded Future

New York Evening Post

The future of the liquor interest in this country must be considered greatly clouded by what has happened in Ohio and Iowa. There could hardly be a worse time than the present for any party to propose, as Mr. Randall has done on behalf of the democratic party, that the tariff should be saved by making whisky free.

Officials of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Chicago have caused the arrest of C. F. Van Winkle for tapping wires and receiving the board of trade quotations.

AMERICAN WHEAT GROWING

The Wheat Country of the Pacific Northwest.

New York Shipping List.

Hitherto California has been the chief wheat producer of the Pacific coast, but the wheat belt of that coast is rapidly extending to the north as the Atlantic coast belt has been steadily moving towards the central northwest during the last thirty years. The eastern border of Oregon and Washington territory with a small strip of western Idaho comprise a section of country that bids fair to outstrip California in the production of wheat. The extent of this new Pacific wheat belt is variously stated, but what may be regarded as a correct estimate gives the length at about 250 miles, with an average width of eighty miles. Within this area more than 200 000 tons of wheat have been raised this year with the disadvantage of an unusually protracted drouth of 120 days, and next year with the additional land which it is expected will be brought under cultivation, a crop of 400 000 tons is looked for. This year the yield has been from 25 to 60 bushels to the acre and the average for several years back has not been less than 30 bushels to the acre. The soil is said to be light with a mixture of alkali and is entirely free from stone. The country is a succession of plain, valley and gentle [illegible]. There is believed to be no richer agricultural district in the world. The wheat growers have nine months of the year in which to seed and four to six months to harvest. The crop has never been known to fail. It costs counting all expenses about 25 cents per bushel to produce, and 60 cents per bushel can always be expected. Two men can with the utmost ease, work a farm of 300 acres only needing extra help for the brief period of harvest. The soil is so fertile that instead of needing fertilizing it yields better crops each successive year. Plentiful as land might seem to be scarcely any that is now available can be purchased for less than from $20 to $30 per acre. The Umatilla Indian reservation is in the heart of the wheat belt and the pale-faces cast covetous eyes upon the possessions of their dusky neighbors. The Umatillas do not number more than six or seven hundred and scarcely a fraction of them are agriculturists. The pressure on the government to open the Umatilla reservation to settlement will never cease until it is successful. In the area of the wheat belt are a dozen or more thriving towns among which are Walla Walla and Weston, both incorporated cities, each containing a population of 6000. The opening of the Northern Pacific railway with its numerous feeders, are expected to do wonders for this hitherto remote part of the Union. Already Oregon wheat has been shipped by the Northern Pacific road to the great milling center of Minneapolis and this new medium of overland communication can not fail to wonderfully stimulate the development and utilization of the magnificent resources of this hitherto little known section of country.

That the United States will long hold the supremacy as against all competitors including British India there can be little doubt. It has been argued that Great Britain will be likely to give the wheat of India, one of her colonies, the preference over that of the United States especially as the latter persists in rejecting Britain's free trade hobby, but such an argument amounts to nothing. The same [illegible] of argument was used about cotton [illegible] tion in India during our civil war. The truth is, Great Britain will buy breadstuffs and cotton in the best markets. For these two staples the best market is the United States. The present area of wheat cultivated in India is twenty million acres, the average production ranging somewhere between eight and thirteen bushels to the acre. Wheat production in that country cannot be materially increased without irrigation. The present aggregate production does not appear to be greatly in excess of consumption—that is India needs all the wheat produced in that country for a well fed population. It is a country of extremes. There are a great many famine seasons. Two or three have occurred within a few years when it became necessary to import food for the native population and even this expedient did not prevent a great many from starving.

There is therefore little danger that India will deprive us of a market for our surplus as long as we have any. The production of wheat in this country has not yet reached its limit and probably will not for a generation or more. The new northwest is a vast country [illegible] just now being opened up by railroads. All that vast country including an area greater than all the states east of the Mississippi river is a wheat producing country. It is true that labor is dearer in this country than it is in India or in Russia. It is true also that agricultural machinery in this country, especially that used in the cutting and threshing of wheat has been brought to greater perfection than in any other country. For the present at least there does not seem to be much danger that the exportation of wheat from this country to Great Britain will be diminished by reason of the resources which India and Russia possess.

THE CASCADE MOUNTAIN SURVEY

Yakima Signal Oct 13

For several years past the Northern Pacific Railroad Company assisted by the United States geographical surveying department have been making an investigation into various natural features of this country which cannot fail to be of very great value when the work shall have been completed. The investigation has been carried on by numerous specialists operating in different sections of the country the result of their labors being brought to a general office which is located at Newport R I, and there arranged for publication. One party of these specialists passed through town this week on their way eastward. During the past summer they have been sojourning in the Cascade mountains lying west of here. The party is under the direction of Mr R U. Goode who is a son of Hon John Goode formerly a member of congress from Virginia. Mr Goode is a practical topographer and has been assisted in his investigations this summer by Professor F S Brandegee a botanist and forestry expert and also by Mr Frank Tweedy, assistant topographer.

Through the courtesy of Mr Goode the Signal is enabled to publish a few facts which will doubtless interest its readers.

The question has often been raised and discussed as to which of the several passes through the Cascades represents the lowest elevation. According to the measurements made by these experts, their respective hights are as follows. The summit of Natchez pass is 4930 feet above the level of the sea. Tacoma pass 3430, Sheets pass 3606; Stampede pass 3695, Yakima pass 3625, Snoqualmie pass, 3110, Cowlitz pass 5200. The elevation of Yakima is 990 feet and that of Ellensburg is 1500 feet. The elevation of Ainsworth, at the mouth of Snake river is 350 feet. The summit of the Umptanum hills by way of the Durr road between [illegible] and Ellensburg, is 3500 feet and the summit of the same hills by way of the Pressey road is 3000 feet.

One important discovery made by Mr Goode's party is that Mount Adams is several hundred feet higher than heretofore supposed while Mount Rainier is 190 feet lower. The hight of Mount Adams is ascertained to be 12 300, and that of Rainier 14 250 feet above the sea.

The forestry expert finds that the trees of the Cascade mountains are greater in variety than in any other part of the United States if not in the world. In the entire Rocky mountain region there are not not more than ten or twelve varieties while in the Cascades there are nineteen, which may be classed as follows

PINES

Pinus ponderosa or yellow pine (three leaves). Pinus contorta or black pine (two leaves). Pinus albicaulis or ridge pine (five leaves). Pinus monticola or mountain pine (five leaves).

FIRS

Pseudo tsuga or red fir

BALSAM FIRS

Abies grandis or white fir. Abies nobilis (very rare). Abies amabilis (very rare). Abies [illegible] (very rare).

LARCHES

Larix occidentalis or western larch. Larix Lyellii (discovered by Prof Lyell). Picea [illegible] or spruce.

HEMLOCKS

Tsuga [illegible] and [illegible].

CEDARS

Juniperus Virginiana. Juniperus [illegible]. Taxus brevifolia (yew). Thuja gigantea (white cedar).

Mr Goode's party have also [illegible] and samples of all grasses and [illegible] peculiar to this region. They will [illegible] make a topographical survey of the [illegible] range between here and The Dalles before leaving for the east.

[illegible], Mass. Jan 14 1880.

I have been very sick over two years. The doctors gave me up as past cure. I tried the most skilful physicians but they did not reach the worst part. The lungs and heart would fill up every night and distress me, and my throat was very bad. I told my children I never should die in peace until I had tried Hop Bitters. I have taken two bottles. They have helped me very much indeed; I am now well. There was a lot of sick folks here who have seen how they helped me, and they used them and are cured and feel as thankful as I do that there is so valuable a medicine made.

MRS. JULIA G. CUSHING

FROGS' LEGS

How a Toothsome Dish is Gathered from Our Marshes and Fens

From the Boston Journal

What can you expect of those fellows who eat frogs?" was the uncomplimentary exclamation of a noted writer when he heard of the failure of a certain French dictionary but he little realized that the intended slur which he cast upon the people of France would before long be applicable to the citizens of America. Boston people alone call for more than two hundred dozen of these delicious little tit bits every day, while New York and the cities in the west call for even larger supplies. In the towns of Maine notably Belfast and Watson and on Cape Cod Barnstable County, [illegible] and [illegible] mouth men are devoting their entire time to catching these Dutch nightingales for the Boston market. Early in the morning the fisherman or perhaps more properly speaking, gentleman starts for the green marshes with his long pole and net. The frogs have just emerged from their dark slimy beds and are sitting contentedly perched in some spot ready to begin the overture of their morning serenade. Suddenly a blush comes the net into their midst and the next moment their director in a big round and a half fellow is to the great astonishment of his froglings whirled through the air and landed a captive at the feet of his arch enemy. Down plump the other singers—tenor bass and baritone—struggling and croaking in startled discord into their safe retreats only to return a few minutes later and yield another victim to the unrelenting net. A good frog fisherman will catch fourteen or fifteen dozen a day but an inexperienced amateur will find this apparently easy sport a difficult job when he attempts to rival the professional. Sometimes shooting is resorted to instead of netting and again the little red flannel bait on the end of a hook is used to entice the frog from his retreat.

The frogs are then sent some alive and some dressed ready for the table to the Boston markets. In Faneuil Hall market at the [illegible] stalls heaps of little shining pearl white frogs legs are offered to the public at from forty to sixty cents a dozen. The season lasts from June till October, July, however being the busiest time. As to the taste of this luxury those who have never partaken of the frog meat cannot realize its delicious flavor and tenderness. The taste is not a fishy one but resembles most that of a young spring chicken. When served as a fried or boiled dish it is especially delectable and at one hotel eight dozen a day are called for in this form during the July season, while even now the average is from two to three dozen.

Among the curious live specimens brought to the Boston markets one a monster fellow weighing nearly two pounds would sit on his back and cry exactly like a baby. The customers would look around in astonishment wondering where the weeping child was hidden. Another twilight minstrel kept in a private aquarium reminds one of the famous frog who would a-wooing go. This fellow conceived a violent attachment for a young lady visitor. Every time the young lady approached the glass abode of the singer he would strike up his most [illegible] lay and dart to the glass side [illegible] follow [illegible] around as she circled about the aquarium. One day to her great astonishment he made a prodigious leap and jumped square upon her shoulder where he sat in triumph. The exertion was too much for him however and a few days after he died lamented by all who knew him.

The Cascade Locks

Dalles Times-Mountaineer

Hon J N Dolph our new senator has never had an opportunity to instance his approval or disapproval in congress of the public improvements now in progress in this state the most important of which is the construction of the locks around the Cascades. We have his written pledge that he will use his best endeavors to further this enterprise and that he would not be behind our present representative or any former representative or senator from this state in his efforts to procure further appropriations for the continuation of this important work. This should be sufficient to all fair minded men until circumstances arise which proves these sentiments false. He has hitherto borne an unspotted reputation morally and politically and no person has any reason to believe that he will belie his pledge. It is true when elected he was vice president of a corporation whose interests were apparently inimical to those of the people who demanded an open river. In this connection he has pledged his word that he should enter congress free and untrammeled by any corporation influence and should act as the attorney for the people of the state with the same integrity that he has towards his clients in the past. At any rate [illegible] made no pledges there is not much choice [illegible] an unofficial and the hired attorney of [illegible] company, as Mr Mitchell was. Both [illegible] would be inclined in that relation to further any [illegible] which will benefit their [illegible]. And when the matter of personal character is taken into consideration Mr Dolph entirely overshadows Mr Mitchell [illegible] that there is not the least comparison.

The honor of originating the bill for constructing locks around the Cascades of the Columbia river belongs to Hon [illegible] the representative in congress from this state and the largest appropriation ever procured was through the efforts of Hon M C George in the lower house aided by Hons James H Slater and J F Grover in the senate the former of whom—although of different politics—has been very earnest and active in the work in favor of the projects which go to benefit the internal commerce of Oregon. The very light air bubbles about Mitchell's undying friendship for eastern Oregon which assume prismatic colors as they are blown from the frothy columns of our contemporary when they come in contact with facts sink into insignificance and nothingness. The truth of the whole matter is more effectual work has been done for the locks since Mitchell has been out of congress than while he was there and we have every reason to believe that Senators Dolph and Slater aided by Congressman George, will do their utmost to fight through congress increased appropriations for this measure.

The constant howl about Mr Mitchell and eastern Oregon interests is the emptiest of all howls and every one knows that it is only resorted to because argument fails in his favor. The people of this section did not want Mitchell and if his election were left to the popular vote to-morrow, he would be sunk so deep in his political grave as to be beyond the power of resurrection.

A SWINDLED SAINT

Why he did not Marry a Woman After Getting her Consent

Salt Lake Tribune

The Tribune has heard of a misfortune which has befallen one of the saints which is most pathetic. The story runs thus: that in trying to live up to his privileges he besought a discriminating lady to accept a fraction of his heart and home. He bears a name which is much noted in Zion. He holds a high position in both the church and the state and hence he pursued his wooing with assurance and confidence. After going through the usual stages of [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] after asking a reasonable number of times if he was certain his love was ground [illegible] red to sleep enough to stand [illegible] through all the [illegible] of this trying old world the lady at last [illegible] finally [illegible] assured him that his fascinations were simply irresistible against all the strength which her susceptible heart could muster to resist but that marriage even in [illegible] was a serious business; that a second or third wife even protected by their holy church labored under disadvantages that he must admit [illegible] [illegible] was a [illegible] severe [illegible] [illegible] prudence dictated that before undertaking all the [illegible] she would have him [illegible] [illegible] then in winsome [illegible] whilst looking her eyelids she drew [illegible] and lo! [illegible] just exactly filled the measure. Her eyes said [illegible] the day he brought [illegible] that property she would become his vigorous [illegible] of a wife. Then her arms stole round his neck and between kisses she explained that there was not one mercenary thought in her heart; she was but [illegible] what was best for him and her alike.

He did not like the arrangement any too well but he thought of his old careworn wife at home and her brood of noisy children and then of the fresh young enchantress by his side, and he began to say to himself: Why should any [illegible] use and let come between me and elysium? [illegible] days later he carried to the sorceress the [illegible] [illegible] and placing it in her hands claimed the fulfillment of her promise. Smiling [illegible] she opened the paper and glanced rapidly through it. It was all right, the signature [illegible] the seal the [illegible] everything. Smiling again in a way that [illegible] his heart thump she said: "I am [illegible] [illegible] to fulfill my promise to day, to-morrow, any time. [illegible] I have as nothing more to promise you. If you [illegible] upon marrying me to day I will [illegible] the penitentiary to-morrow." He went away and the words upon his lips were not those of prayer. He wonders now which is the [illegible] that woman or the [illegible] of the United States, and the problem which [illegible] his brain is [illegible] his old wife [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] show he will ever get even on that house and lot.

If the Austrian empire the production of [illegible] amounts to [illegible] per inhabitant; in Great Britain [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Denmark 112 [illegible] [illegible] Norway [illegible] Sweden [illegible]

It weighed sixty one ounces.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

MONDAY Oct 22

The week opens with a fair trade doing. Produce lines are in good movement but are uninteresting as regards changes in valuations.

FREIGHTS—The arrival of a number of vessels under charter has created no particular stir as charterers have been providing against them for some time. Those not under charter have done nothing as yet. The iron bark Oberon came in to day with coal from Hull and will be on the market for charter. No new business is being done and the inactivity may last for some time. Tonnage now in port amounts to 44 773 of which 28 079 is engaged and 16 [illegible] seeking. Of the latter 3243 only is iron. Tonnage en route registers 4 [illegible] that in port has a carrying capacity of nearly 80 000 tons. In absence of any business 58s is quoted for iron to U. K. The Celtic chief is placed on the disengaged list although a [illegible] report says she is under charter.

WHEAT—Receipts show some falling off as compared with previous report yet are quite satisfactory. Some holders have lots in the interior that would come in good play here although not actually needed. The market exhibits no change of interest. Valley wheat brings a shade above $1 40 in instances while $1 37½ is the top open bid for eastern. The last steamer for San Francisco took out 6500 centals and at a low rate of freight. The loading movement was active to day and will be for a month. Foreign markets are inactive and easy. Farmers deliveries show a steady falling off as compared with three weeks ago. The English farmer is evidently rushing his grain to market as deliveries have averaged 75 000 [illegible] work [illegible] for a month past.

OATS—Receipts again show an increase and are mostly on commission. Jobbers have fair stocks which enables so [illegible] low. To close out promptly it would be necessary to shade 50c on good feed lots.

FLOUR—The Columbia took out 346 bbls which is considered a free shipment. There is little demand except for local trading and outside business has [illegible].

WOOL—Advices show generally quiet and uninteresting markets which is our experience at this time. It requires a very choice article to draw a bid of more than 18c.

BUTTER—Eastern receipts continue [illegible] and are held at 40. [illegible] color and quality are both attractive yet not [illegible] to Oregon [illegible]. Values show no change.

EGGS. A firm market is had under [illegible] stocks at 45. Receipts are not up to expectations.

A NEW ROBBERY

The Latest Swindle in which a Clever Youth is Aided by a Pretty Girl

Baltimore Sun

An ingenious swindle and one which has been worked to great success has been practiced on unsuspecting tradespeople, druggists and others in Baltimore this week. The latest three transactions took place about dusk Thursday evening and the victims were all within a short distance of each other. About the time mentioned a well dressed young man attended by an engaging looking lady drove up in a fine buggy in front of a well known drug store in North Baltimore. He alighted and [illegible] [illegible] for the proprietor of the store [illegible] wanted to see what was wanted. Then the genteel young man in a hurried and [illegible] way explained that he was the son of a well known coal dealer with whom the druggist was on very intimate terms. The lady in the carriage was his wife and they were on the way to an entertainment when he had [illegible] [illegible] he was without a cent of money. Would the druggist kindly lend him $10 as he was in too great a hurry to go all the way back home for some. Of course the druggist would. The [illegible] of the druggist and the appearance of the young man were sufficient and the druggist went into the store took $10 from the drawer returned to the carriage and handed the young man the money.

After a few hurried thanks the vehicle was driven rapidly off. It stopped in front of a grocery store not far from the drug store. The young man went through the same programme and obtained the money asked for. Then the couple drove to another drug store near the boundary and by the same operation except that the young man represented himself as the son of a prominent manufacturer and the young lady as his sister, the usual $10 was obtained. Other places were similarly victimized and one Baltimore storekeeper [illegible] [illegible] $25 and it is thought that the couple left Baltimore with several hundred dollars [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] storekeepers.

She Wasn't What He Wanted

Boston Traveller

The love [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] planter visiting New York [illegible] a charming woman [illegible] a Brooklyn ferryboat and fell in love with her. He traced her home and learned that she was a widow most respectably connected. He was called to Cuba and wrote her a letter full of affection and giving references. Her friends inquired and found that he was a desirable match. She replied to the letter. He responded. She wrote and he wrote until there was an offer of marriage and an acceptance and the wedding day was fixed. She prepared her bridal robes and he returned to New York. They met at the house of one of her friends, she wondering how he looked, he anticipating a second vision of beauty. She saw a handsome man, he looked and screamed: "You are the wrong woman." And so it was. They had neglected to exchange photographs. She mourns a widow, and he haunts the Brooklyn ferryboats for another vision.

Ladies and sickly girls requiring a non alcoholic gentle stimulant will find Brown's Iron Bitters beneficial.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect
